Election Over, Question Is: What Are Lausche's Plans?

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — The reverberations from Tuesday's amazing Ohio election hardly died away today before they were replaced with these questions:

What are Governor Lausche's plans for 1952? Will he seek the U. S. Senate seat now held by GOP Sen. John W. Bricker—like Lausche a one-time three-term governor? Will he be projected into the national presidential or vice-presidential picture? Will he retire to private law practice?

Minor surprises were many but major surprises were few as Lausche and "Mr. Republican"—Sen. Robert A. Taft—each won third terms—Taft by an amazing margin of 430,000.

Taft's plans are generally taken for granted—it is conceded that he will be in the thick of the GOP presidential fight.

But what about Lausche—the only Democrat not only to withstand the Taft landslide, but actually to build up a comfortable margin of 146,000 votes in doing so?

Lausche refused to discuss any plans he may have in that bushy-haired head of his. He would comment only that he had two more years, tough years, to serve Ohio as governor.

As to the surprises, the two major ones included the size of Taft's majority—which caused his Democrat opponent, Labor-backed State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, to comment in conceding Taft's election that the senator had handed him "the greatest surprise of my entire life."

The other major unexpected happenstance was the speed with which the votes were counted. The first use of Ohio's new office-type ballot was expected to delay the count in what generally was conceded to be the nation's most important off-year election.

Instead, the count went faster and smoother than ever. By midnight the two major races for governor and senator were settled, except for the size of the victory margins.

And those margins were news in themselves. Not even Taft's closest supporters would have predicted such an overwhelming victory, since Labor leaders of the entire nation had made Taft their number one target and had poured into Ohio all the assistance at their command to aid Ferguson's campaign.

Taft's victory was magnificent—but not enough to pull into office with him his gubernatorial running mate, six-term state treasurer Don H. Ebright.

In losing to Lausche, Ebright not only lost his job—he is ending his term as state treasurer—but also lost the first fight of his entire political career.

Taft's margin did, however, do other surprising things. It regained control of Ohio's congressional delegation for the Republicans, who currently are on the short end of a 12-11 count. When the new session of the Congress gets underway, however, they will have a 15-8 margin.

Taft also pulled into office with him an overwhelmingly Republican state legislature—another prize the Democrats had wrested from the GOP in the 1948 Truman landslide.

Last session, the Ohio senate was split 19-to-14 in favor of the Democrats, while this next session the GOP will hold a 26-to-7 margin. The house, which was Democratic by a 69-66 count, will have at least two thirds of its members in the next session sitting on the Republican side of the aisle.

In stacking up his historic majority, Taft carried all but four counties—Jefferson, Lawrence, Pike and Belmont. Two of those counties, Lawrence and Belmont, were not even carried by Lausche—only by Ferguson. Lausche was in the doghouse of local politicos; because of his gambling raids against the notorious Chesapeake Club in Lawrence and against private clubs in Belmont.

Lausche, for his part, carried only 21 of the 88 counties in withstanding the Taft Republican tide—but they were the ones which counted. They included his own home county of Cuyahoga—by about 150,000 votes—Hamilton, Franklin, Lucas, Montgomery, Mahoning and Summit—seven of the so-called "big eight." Only Stark went for the GOP aspirant.

67th Year–264

Next 2 Years To Be Rough On President

Hostile Congress Facing Truman; Ohio's Taft In Driver's Seat

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 — The Truman administration today heads for a two-year period of legislative turmoil with a new Congress, Democratic in name but hostile in character.

The Democratic "victory" in Tuesday's balloting may prove costly to the President's legislative program, but he can blame only a Democratic Congress.

It is almost certain the new Congress will insist on greater economies in domestic affairs, strongly oppose any extension of civilian controls, call a halt to Socialistic legislation and demand a baring of all foreign policy to Republican scrutiny.

There is little doubt but that the President and the new Congress will parry for two years in preparation for the 1952 presidential elections.

The Democrats will have Mr. Truman available again but the Republicans will have a stronger group of potentialities than two years ago.

SEN. ROBERT A. Taft of Ohio stands out in this group even though Gov. Thomas E. Dewey won a resounding reelection in New York. Dewey has taken himself out of the 1952 race, but he promised his support to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who may be the GOP nominee in the end.

But Taft must be reckoned with. His astounding victory by 430,000 votes was one of the great all-time political successes in Ohio's history. Actually it has been surpassed in only three presidential elections.

In 1936, the late President Roosevelt won Ohio by 620,000; in 1928, former President Hoover carried it by 736,000 and back in 1924, the late President Coolidge scored a 600,000 victory.

Not even the late President Harding, a native Ohioan, beat the Taft margin. And Taft's own father won it by only 70,000 in 1908 for the presidency.

On top of that, Taft proved he could win despite the desperate opposition of nearly all top union leaders.

He may have drawn as many votes from working men as his defeated Democratic opponent, who was so ardently supported by union bosses. Above all, he has shown he can win and win big in an industrial state.

Out on the West Coast, Gov. Earl Warren won a commanding victory over the late President's son, James Roosevelt, for another term. This projected him into the 1952 picture.

'Lame-Duck' Call Eyed

Truman Statement Being Awaited

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—President Truman is expected to decide by Sunday whether to reconvene the 81st Congress before Nov. 27, the date set by the legislators for a "lame-duck" session.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross scoffed at reports that Mr. Truman would act on the matter on a certain day. Ross told newsmen by radio-telephone that these rumors are "so much hogwash."

However, a statement from the President is anticipated before he ends the Potomac river and Chesapeake Bay cruise which he began Tuesday night.

Meanwhile, the dapper, smiling chief executive philosophically accepted the wave of Democratic defeats in Tuesday's elections which included the loss of three Senate stalwarts.

His surprise over the rejection of Sens. Tydings, (D) Md., Myers, (D) Pa., and Lucas, (D) Ill., was unconcealed but he showed keen delight over the record off-year turnout of the nation's voters.

REPORTERS accompanying the Presidential Yacht Williamsburg asked Ross how Mr. Truman felt about the election. Ross replied:

"The man I see sticking his head in here to talk to me is a very cheerful man."

Ebullient, chipper and relaxed, the President was attempting to make the most of what was described as his last vacation for some time.

Ross said Mr. Truman expressed deep concern over the news that the 17-year-old daughter of California's Gov. Earl Warren had been stricken with infantile paralysis.

Ross added:

"The story about Miss Warren was the first thing that struck the President when he looked at the front page headlines at breakfast this morning.

"Mr. Truman said, 'That is terrible—I am so sorry.' "

A presidential order recalling Congress would set the stage for action on legislation which was shunted aside when the lawmakers went home in September.

The agenda includes such items as taxes, rearmament and statehood for Alaska and Hawaii.

Defeated Labor Bosses Still Planning Battle

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — There was defeat but no retreat for labor leaders today.

Although handed their worst licking in a contest of their own choosing by the 430,000-vote victory margin of Sen. Robert A. Taft, the leaders made it clear they would continue to participate in political campaigns.

Jack Kroll of Cincinnati, national head of the CIO's Political Action Committee, said "we did the best job we knew how" and added:

"I can see no reason to change our organizational or other plans."

Jacob Clayman of Columbus, state CIO secretary and leader in the anti-Taft fight, observed:

"The road to social and economic justice is a long and hard one. Today apparently we were delayed. Tomorrow we will start on our way again."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor whose home is in Coshocton, said he was "surprised and disappointed" but added:

"However, it's Democracy in action. We'll simply have to prepare for the future and carry on the fight to repeal the Taft-Hartley law."

LEFTIST Vito Marcantonio, American Labor Party congressman who does not object to Communists, is shown as he pulled lever in New York election booth. He probably voted for himself, but few of his friends did. He was defeated.

Acheson Due To Resign?

Poll Observers See Change Ahead

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—Political and diplomatic observers are convinced today that the Republican gains in Congress will ultimately force the resignation of Dean Acheson as secretary of state.

Acheson has denied he has any intention of resigning. It is doubtful that President Truman wishes to be rid of him.

In the present situation it is doubtful that the chief executive would call for Acheson's resignation, since this would imply a change in United States foreign policy. Such a change is certainly not contemplated.

The picture is complicated by the fact that such Republican leaders as Sen. Taft, (R) Ohio, have contended that the election returns are a repudiation of U. S. foreign policy, of Acheson and of the Fair Deal.

WHILE THIS is considered a too simple statement of the situation, Taft carries enough weight in the Senate and in his own party to cause the Republicans to concentrate on this theory.

In addition, Republican representation on congressional committees will be increased under usual procedure. The Democratic membership will reflect the narrow margin by which the party controls House and Senate.

In some cases this may be as small as a majority of one. Furthermore, the South is represented by a number of members who perform more along Republican lines than those of the administration.

Consequently, it is felt, the chance of getting the Senate Foreign Relations committee to approve certain pending or future

Walcutt Tipped As Next Leader

State Sen. Roscoe R. Walcutt of Columbus, who represents Pickaway and Franklin Counties, is being boomed today as leader of the new Republican-controlled Ohio legislature which will convene New Year's Day.

Walcutt, who was minority leader in the senate last session when it was 91-to-14 in control of the Democrats, is considered a natural choice for majority leader, since the GOP has won a 26-to-6 margin in Tuesday's election.

60,000 More Chinese Reds Moving Toward Korea War

WAR ACTION TO BE CITED

U.S. Expected To Ask UN Orders To Red China

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 9—The U. S. was reported ready today to demand before the UN General Assembly that Communist China be called on to withdraw its troops from Korea.

The action would be taken under the provisions of the Acheson Peace Plan which gives the assembly the power to act against an aggression when the Security Council has been stymied by a veto.

The Acheson plan also empowers the assembly to call on the 60 UN members for troops to fight aggression anywhere in the world.

It is a foregone conclusion that a U. S. resolution on Red China's intervention against UN forces will be vetoed by Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik in the 11-nation council.

The resolution — sponsored jointly by Britain, France and Ecuador—calls on the Peiping regime to withdraw its 30,000 troops from Korea as the safest means of preventing a major war in Asia.

All governments also are asked to refrain from aiding the North Koreans and Communist China is reassured that the Manchurian border will be respected.

The assurance is given in the form of a directive to the UN interim commission on Korea that everything must be done to achieve a peaceful settlement in the Yalu river areas. The Security Council is certain to run into stiff opposition from Russia in all efforts to get rapid action on the resolution.

The U. S. believes Communist China's military intervention in Korea is of such grave nature that immediate council decisions are necessary.

Russia has demanded that the council await the arrival of Peiping representatives before discussing the MacArthur report on the Chinese intervention. However, most of the delegates are inclined to go ahead tomorrow without awaiting Red China's team.

The Chinese Communists were invited to the council discussion yesterday by an eight-to-two vote, with one abstention. Both the United States and Russia voted for it.

MEANWHILE, the political committee was voting today on a Yugoslav proposal to nip potential wars in the bud by having each side proclaim its desire for peace.

Under the proposal, parties to a dispute must announce within 24 hours after the outbreak of hostilities their intention of laying down arms and submitting their differences to peaceful negotiation.

The peace observation commission, created by the assembly under its "uniting for peace" program to smash aggression, would then be called in to determine the cause of hostilities and seek out a solution.

Texas Farmer Buys Surplus Gear For $6.89, Sells For $63,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 — The Senate preparedness subcommittee disclosed today that a Texas farmer bought $1.2 million worth of surplus airplane parts for $6.89—and then sold them back to the government for $63,000.

Chairman Lydon B. Johnson, (D) Texas, termed the transaction "perhaps the most astounding case of short-sightedness that we have encountered."

Johnson said the incident happened this way:

In 1946 a former Navy officer bought some surplus war goods to improve his East Texas farm. While bidding on this material he ran across an offering of "aircraft computers."

Thinking that the devices might be "cheap slide rules," he filed a bid of about five cents each. He was soon notified that his bid had been accepted and told him to pick up the computers.

When he told the government to ship his purchases by parcel post, he was told that would be impossible since there was about an acre of them.

HE RUSHED to the war surplus depot in San Antonio, Texas, and found he had bought for a total of $6.89 about 170 unused aircraft parallax computers—electric fire control instruments—of the latest design, valued at $7,200 each—a total value of $1,209,600.

When the purchaser said he didn't want the machines, he was told he had signed a contract and had to take them, so he hauled them to his home.

Later, the farmer whose name the subcommittee withheld, informed the Airforce of his purchase and within a few days he had sold the computers back to the government for $63,000.

The purchaser estimated that in addition to the $6.89, the deal cost him $4,000 for crating, shipping and the like. His net profit was $58,993.11. He had this comment:

"The thing may be summed up by saying that the disposal agency was delighted to unload what they thought was a heap of junk on an unsuspecting country boy."

Johnson after disclosing the transaction said that "substantial progress" has been made toward correcting such practices, and added:

"We hope that this incident will impress upon all agencies dealing with surplus the great necessity for exercising the utmost caution and care in their transactions."

ARMY AIDE GIVES VIEWS

Chinese Reds May Plan Sweep Of Whole Of Korea

TOKYO, Nov. 9—A high official close to General Douglas MacArthur expressed the opinion today that Communist China may be preparing an offensive aimed at conquering the entire Korean peninsula.

This official said the present Communist withdrawal from contact with United Nations forces in Korea is considered merely a tactical movement to await the arrival of heavier forces.

American intelligence officers already have reported that such Red forces are on the move from Manchuria where the Chinese have half a million regular army troops.

The most logical interpretation of the Communist withdrawal, the official said, is that advance Chinese Communist forces took heavy punishment from UN ground and air attacks and pulled back temporarily to await reinforcements who have crossed or will cross the Yalu river border from Manchuria into Korea.

THAT IS BELIEVED to be the reason why MacArthur ordered the Yalu river bridges bombed Thursday even though the time gained by blasting the spans now is very short. Early next month ice will make the whole Yalu a bridge strong enough to support military traffic.

Bombing of the bridges is an effort to stall Chinese movement across the river for a short time. It is obvious, from the fact that the effort is being made, that MacArthur considers Chinese reinforcements during the

Half-Million Said Massed For Action

Commie Resistance Softens For Moment

SEOUL, Nov. 10—(Friday)—An additional 60,000 Chinese Red troops in Manchuria were moving toward Korea today as Allied patrols on the Korean front probed up to six miles forward in a vain search for the enemy's main forces.

Hundreds of American planes attacked bridges, roads and Communist convoys along the Korean side of the Yalu river boundary while a U. S. Navy jet fighter shot down another Russian-made jet in a new all-jet battle.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters spokesman declared an estimated 500,000 Chinese Communist troops are massed in Manchuria, with 60,000 moving toward the Yalu to join 60,000 already in Korea.

In all three of the principal North Korean war sectors, United Nations troops were thrusting northward warily in quest of the main Red battle formations. They were meeting resistance only at a few points.

A FIRST CORPS official spokesman said late Thursday night that the enemy has not mounted as much as a probing attack north of the Allied Chongchon river bridgehead in the last 48 hours.

The only contact with the enemy during that period in the northwest sector came Thursday morning when a tank-led reconnaissance patrol of the U. S. 24th Infantry Division caught 200 to 300 Red troops three miles northeast of Pakchon.

This represented an American penetration of at least six miles north from the vital Chongchon bridgehead perimeter.

U. S. Eighth Army field headquarters announced that

Psychiatrist 'Sees' Saucer, But Doubts It

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — There is a psychiatrist in Columbus who doesn't want it known that he saw a flying saucer nor does he want his name known.

The shy psychiatrist who does't want it known that he saw a "strange phenomena" as he and his wife were about to retire for the night, said "psychiatrists take enough ribbing."

Chuckling, he said:

"If they ever traced this story to me, I'd never live it down."

And the doctor's wife said she saw the object that appeared high in the sky, about as big as a basketball. She said it appeared to be the taillight of a plane but it remained motionless.

Dr. and Mrs. "Anonymous" said they watched the light for 10 minutes until it fluttered out.

As for the puff of smoke the doctor's wife claimed she saw when the light went out, the psychiatrist analyzed it, saying to her:

"You're letting you imagination run rampant."

Chinese Reds Said In Capital

LONDON, Nov. 9—The Peiping Radio was quoted as saying in a broadcast today that Chinese Communist forces have entered Lhasa, the capital of Tibet.

Reuters News Agency reported the broadcast in a dispatch from Kalimpong, India, on the Indian-Tibetan frontier.

Last reports on the advance of Chinese Communists into the Asiatic mountain country said that the troops from China had penetrated to within 45 miles of Lhasa, seat of the Dalai Lama, 15-year-old temporal and spiritual ruler of Tibet.

Election Over, Question Is: What Are Lausche's Plans?

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — The reverberations from Tuesday's amazing Ohio election hardly died away today before they were replaced with these questions:

What are Governor Lausche's plans for 1952? Will he seek the U. S. Senate seat now held by GOP Sen. John W. Bricker—like Lausche a one-time three-term governor? Will he be projected into the national presidential or vice-presidential picture? Will he retire to private law practice?

Walcutt Tipped As Next Leader

State Sen. Roscoe R. Walcutt of Columbus, who represents Pickaway and Franklin Counties, is being boomed today as leader of the new Republican-controlled Ohio legislature which will convene New Year's Day.

Walcutt, who was minority leader in the senate last session when it was 91-to-14 in control of the Democrats, is considered a natural choice for majority leader, since the GOP has won a 26-to-6 margin in Tuesday's election.

60,000 More Chinese Reds Moving Toward Korea War

WAR ACTION TO BE CITED

U.S. Expected To Ask UN Orders To Red China

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 9—The U. S. was reported ready today to demand before the UN General Assembly that Communist China be called on to withdraw its troops from Korea.

The action would be taken under the provisions of the Acheson Peace Plan which gives the assembly the power to act against an aggression when the Security Council has been stymied by a veto.

The Acheson plan also empowers the assembly to call on the 60 UN members for troops to fight aggression anywhere in the world.

It is a foregone conclusion that a U. S. resolution on Red China's intervention against UN forces will be vetoed by Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik in the 11-nation council.

The resolution — sponsored jointly by Britain, France and Ecuador—calls on the Peiping regime to withdraw its 30,000 troops from Korea as the safest means of preventing a major war in Asia.

All governments also are asked to refrain from aiding the North Koreans and Communist China is reassured that the Manchurian border will be respected.

The assurance is given in the form of a directive to the UN interim commission on Korea that everything must be done to achieve a peaceful settlement in the Yalu river areas. The Security Council is certain to run into stiff opposition from Russia in all efforts to get rapid action on the resolution.

The U. S. believes Communist China's military intervention in Korea is of such grave nature that immediate council decisions are necessary.

Russia has demanded that the council await the arrival of Peiping representatives before discussing the MacArthur report on the Chinese intervention. However, most of the delegates are inclined to go ahead tomorrow without awaiting Red China's team.

The Chinese Communists were invited to the council discussion yesterday by an eight-to-two vote, with one abstention. Both the United States and Russia voted for it.

MEANWHILE, the political committee was voting today on a Yugoslav proposal to nip potential wars in the bud by having each side proclaim its desire for peace.

Under the proposal, parties to a dispute must announce within 24 hours after the outbreak of hostilities their intention of laying down arms and submitting their differences to peaceful negotiation.

The peace observation commission, created by the assembly under its "uniting for peace" program to smash aggression, would then be called in to determine the cause of hostilities and seek out a solution.

Texas Farmer Buys Surplus Gear For $6.89, Sells For $63,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 — The Senate preparedness subcommittee disclosed today that a Texas farmer bought $1.2 million worth of surplus airplane parts for $6.89—and then sold them back to the government for $63,000.

Chairman Lydon B. Johnson, (D) Texas, termed the transaction "perhaps the most astounding case of short-sightedness that we have encountered."

Johnson said the incident happened this way:

In 1946 a former Navy officer bought some surplus war goods to improve his East Texas farm. While bidding on this material he ran across an offering of "aircraft computers."

Thinking that the devices might be "cheap slide rules," he filed a bid of about five cents each. He was soon notified that his bid had been accepted and told him to pick up the computers.

When he told the government to ship his purchases by parcel post, he was told that would be impossible since there was about an acre of them.

HE RUSHED to the war surplus depot in San Antonio, Texas, and found he had bought for a total of $6.89 about 170 unused aircraft parallax computers—electric fire control instruments—of the latest design, valued at $7,200 each—a total value of $1,209,600.

When the purchaser said he didn't want the machines, he was told he had signed a contract and had to take them, so he hauled them to his home.

Later, the farmer whose name the subcommittee withheld, informed the Airforce of his purchase and within a few days he had sold the computers back to the government for $63,000.

The purchaser estimated that in addition to the $6.89, the deal cost him $4,000 for crating, shipping and the like. His net profit was $58,993.11. He had this comment:

"The thing may be summed up by saying that the disposal agency was delighted to unload what they thought was a heap of junk on an unsuspecting country boy."

Johnson after disclosing the transaction said that "substantial progress" has been made toward correcting such practices, and added:

"We hope that this incident will impress upon all agencies dealing with surplus the great necessity for exercising the utmost caution and care in their transactions."

ARMY AIDE GIVES VIEWS

Chinese Reds May Plan Sweep Of Whole Of Korea

TOKYO, Nov. 9—A high official close to General Douglas MacArthur expressed the opinion today that Communist China may be preparing an offensive aimed at conquering the entire Korean peninsula.

This official said the present Communist withdrawal from contact with United Nations forces in Korea is considered merely a tactical movement to await the arrival of heavier forces.

American intelligence officers already have reported that such Red forces are on the move from Manchuria where the Chinese have half a million regular army troops.

The most logical interpretation of the Communist withdrawal, the official said, is that advance Chinese Communist forces took heavy punishment from UN ground and air attacks and pulled back temporarily to await reinforcements who have crossed or will cross the Yalu river border from Manchuria into Korea.

THAT IS BELIEVED to be the reason why MacArthur ordered the Yalu river bridges bombed Thursday even though the time gained by blasting the spans now is very short. Early next month ice will make the whole Yalu a bridge strong enough to support military traffic.

Bombing of the bridges is an effort to stall Chinese movement across the river for a short time. It is obvious, from the fact that the effort is being made, that MacArthur considers Chinese reinforcements during the

Half-Million Said Massed For Action

Commie Resistance Softens For Moment

SEOUL, Nov. 10—(Friday)—An additional 60,000 Chinese Red troops in Manchuria were moving toward Korea today as Allied patrols on the Korean front probed up to six miles forward in a vain search for the enemy's main forces.

Hundreds of American planes attacked bridges, roads and Communist convoys along the Korean side of the Yalu river boundary while a U. S. Navy jet fighter shot down another Russian-made jet in a new all-jet battle.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters spokesman declared an estimated 500,000 Chinese Communist troops are massed in Manchuria, with 60,000 moving toward the Yalu to join 60,000 already in Korea.

In all three of the principal North Korean war sectors, United Nations troops were thrusting northward warily in quest of the main Red battle formations. They were meeting resistance only at a few points.

A FIRST CORPS official spokesman said late Thursday night that the enemy has not mounted as much as a probing attack north of the Allied Chongchon river bridgehead in the last 48 hours.

The only contact with the enemy during that period in the northwest sector came Thursday morning when a tank-led reconnaissance patrol of the U. S. 24th Infantry Division caught 200 to 300 Red troops three miles northeast of Pakchon.

This represented an American penetration of at least six miles north from the vital Chongchon bridgehead perimeter.

U. S. Eighth Army field headquarters announced that

Psychiatrist 'Sees' Saucer, But Doubts It

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — There is a psychiatrist in Columbus who doesn't want it known that he saw a flying saucer nor does he want his name known.

The shy psychiatrist who does't want it known that he saw a "strange phenomena" as he and his wife were about to retire for the night, said "psychiatrists take enough ribbing."

Chuckling, he said:

"If they ever traced this story to me, I'd never live it down."

And the doctor's wife said she saw the object that appeared high in the sky, about as big as a basketball. She said it appeared to be the taillight of a plane but it remained motionless.

Dr. and Mrs. "Anonymous" said they watched the light for 10 minutes until it fluttered out.

As for the puff of smoke the doctor's wife claimed she saw when the light went out, the psychiatrist analyzed it, saying to her:

"You're letting you imagination run rampant."

Chinese Reds Said In Capital

LONDON, Nov. 9—The Peiping Radio was quoted as saying in a broadcast today that Chinese Communist forces have entered Lhasa, the capital of Tibet.

Reuters News Agency reported the broadcast in a dispatch from Kalimpong, India, on the Indian-Tibetan frontier.

Last reports on the advance of Chinese Communists into the Asiatic mountain country said that the troops from China had penetrated to within 45 miles of Lhasa, seat of the Dalai Lama, 15-year-old temporal and spiritual ruler of Tibet.

Half-Million Said Massed For Action

that 24th Division's armored patrol, "with the aid of friendly air forces, attacked this enemy force, inflicting heavy casualties and causing it to withdraw north."

The First Corps spokesman said 165 Red troops were captured in the northwest sector Wednesday. He did not indicate whether any Chinese were among the prisoners. Nor was it known whether the captured group consisted of stragglers left behind when the main Red forces broke contact and began withdrawing four days ago.

The First Corps officer said intensive low-level aerial reconnaissance uncovered "no enemy movement" in the northwest sector during the 48 hours up to Thursday night.

However, there remained the possibility that the Reds were carrying out a large-scale regrouping for a coming major push down the center of North Korea designed to split the UN forces in two.

AERIALLY observed movements on both sides of the Yalu river boundary indicated also that the enemy's front-line troops are awaiting fresh reinforcements from Manchuria.

From the South Korean Second Army Corps' front near the middle of the peninsula, INS War Correspondent Bernard Kaplan reported that the Rok (Republic of Korea) Eighth Division captured Tokchon late Thursday.

Kaplan's midnight field dispatch said the South Koreans then pushed some distance to the north of the key town which lies astride an important lateral rail-highway route across North Korea's waist.

The Rok Eighth was subjected to heavy mortar fire from Communist positions in the hills north of Tokchon Wednesday. But late Thursday they managed to enter the town which the Reds had abandoned and took some high ground to the north against minor resistance.

American military advisers with the Rok Second Corps said Rok Seventh Division troops seized Wonni, just east of the Chongchon bridgehead area, after a 1,000-yard advance.

Wonni was the scene of a violent battle less than a week ago when the Reds attempted to drive down to the vital hub of Kunuri, six miles to the southwest.

Kaplan's dispatch pointed out that the South Korean capture of Tokchon and Wonni appeared to bear out reports that the Reds have withdrawn to shift their main strength eastward.

Such a shift would presage a possible enemy effort to drive a wedge down Korea's central "mountain spine" between the U. S. Eighth Army in the west and the American 10th Corps in the east.

Partial Closing Scheduled Here For Saturday

Circleville Postoffice, banks, library and city and county offices will be closed Saturday in observance of Armistice Day.

However, Circleville merchants will conduct business as usual Saturday along with local industry.

Schools, although dismissed for the weekend on Saturday, are expected to have observances of some kind on Friday. The school observances will be held either in the room or in assembly.

Circleville postoffice will be closed for the day, although its city mail clerks will make deliveries. No mail deliveries are to be made, however, and the windows will be closed.

Chinese Reds May Plan Sweep Of Whole Of Korea

next few weeks an element of critical importance.

The Chinese Communists themselves have proclaimed their aim of driving the United Nations from Korea—a maneuver which historically is a strategic necessity for any conqueror in Northeast Asia.

The Peiping Radio — official voice of Communist China—proclaimed this aim of all-out victory Tuesday when it said that Chinese intervention will bring about the "possibility of turning the tide of war, annihilating and repulsing unconsolidated American invading troops and forcing the aggressors to accept a just and peaceful solution of the Korean question."

The high official close to MacArthur outlined his personal views which it can be assumed are known by and possibly shared by MacArthur.

THIS SOURCE discounted speculation that the Chinese withdrew to await a political settlement of the Korean war, saying:

"That is one possibility among many but I would give it absolutely the lowest priority."

He explained further:

"If they were motivated by a desire for a political settlement, they would increase rather than decrease pressure on United Nations forces. They would want their threat to be as great as possible during the time political settlement was being discussed."

The official said in his view the Chinese threw some forces into the line, made some gains but suffered such heavy losses from UN ground and air action they withdrew to await reinforcements.

The official said that the Chinese know that all American and most other foreign units in Korea already have been committed at the front, so the UN manpower pool does not have the reserve that the Chinese Reds have with an estimated half million soldiers in Manchuria.

Therefore, he said, the Chinese know they can delay their offensive many days awaiting arrival of new manpower before attacking and still be safe from any decisive influx of UN manpower.

Self-Slapping Plan For Law Violators Talked

A new idea designed to cut down minor traffic violations is being considered for Pickaway County.

Magistrate Oscar Root of Circleville said he picked up the idea Wednesday during a meeting of the Ohio Magistrates' Association in Columbus.

"In some places," he said, "part of the fines for minor traffic offenses are being suspended on one condition.

"That condition is that the offender post a sticker on his car which reads 'Traffic Violator.' "

The squire said that in counties where the system is being used now it is proving to be effective.

"I hope to ask Pickaway County courts to adopt the plan," said Root. "I'll make the proposal when we get together again."

Pickaway County magistrates, mayors and law enforcement officials meet here every three months to discuss problems. The proposal is expected to be made during the next meeting of the group.

Restrainer OKd By Court Here

A divorce petition has been filed in Pickaway County common pleas court by Ruby Teets against Robert R. Teets.

The couple was married June 21, 1947, in Ashville. They have one child. The wife accuses the husband of gross neglect and abandonment.

She asks for the divorce, alimony, custody of the child and a restraining order to keep the husband from disposing of property. The order was granted by Judge William D. Radcliff.

Francis Denies Hunting Rumor

Pickaway County Game Protector Clarence Francis declared Thursday that it will be illegal for anyone to hunt pheasants or rabbits here before next Wednesday.

"Someone has started a rumor in the county that high school kids will be allowed to shoot game Saturday," Francis said.

Cost Of War: 28,235 Casualties

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 — The Defense Department announced today that verified American casualties in Korea up to Nov. 3 totalled 28,235—an increase of 625 over the last report on Oct. 27.

The new figure includes 4,655 dead, 4,159 of them killed in action and 492 fatally wounded. The wounded total is 19,301, and there are 3,672 men still missing.

Bit Of History Is Dug Up By City Workmen

A bit of Pickaway County history is being dug up by workmen engaged in the construction of the new Circleville water gallery.

Ervin Leist, city water department manager, said walnut logs from two to three feet in diameter have been found 20 feet underground at the site of the new gallery.

"They are completely waterlogged," Leist said, "and probably would petrify if allowed to remain there long enough. It is an indication that at one time Darby Creek must have flowed over the site."

Leist said that in addition to the logs, periwinkle shells and huge boulders have been uncovered.

"It is a spot," said Leist, "where you wouldn't expect to find any boulders at all."

He said work on the new gallery has progressed well beyond the halfway mark, is expected to be completed by the end of the month.

"The contractor has about 35 joints to put in. Each joint is four feet long, and an average of three joints a day are laid," Leist explained.

Construction of a manhole will be all that remains after the 400-foot gallery is laid to complete the job.

Ohio's Taft To Be Boss Of Congress

vania, Gov. James H. Duff, elected to the Senate over the Democratic whip, Sen. Francis Myers, may be heard of two years hence. So too, the new Sen. Everett Dirksen, who defeated Democratic Leader Scott Lucas in Illinois.

TAFT WILL be an outstanding figure in the national political arena throughout the next two years. A coalition of Southern Conservative Democrats plus the Republicans is certain to rule the Senate.

It's recalled that Sen. Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia went into Ohio in the closing hours of the campaign and spoke well of Taft. This now means that Byrd and Taft will be friendly comrades in many a legislative battle. It means whenever they agree, Taft and Byrd—not the President—will control the Senate.

In the House of Representativs, a similar situation will exist.

Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts and Rep. Gene Cox, (D) of Georgia, may well be the coalition leaders of the House, rather than Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas.

The Republicans captured eight new governorships Tuesday, giving them 26 out of the 48. And many of the Democratic governors are in Southern states.

The Republicans will have strong statehouse organizations two years hence in New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Utah, Colorado, the Dakotas, California, Oregon and Washington. They will have governors in Montana and the three Southwest states, Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada simultaneously for the first time in history.

Those state machines will be of great help to the GOP in 1952.

The Democrats meanwhile will have governors in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Ohio, Illinois and Indiana among important northern states.

In the coming days, the Republicans will join the Democrats in rearming the nation against Communist aggression. But the GOP will demand partnership in foreign affairs in return for that support.

Driver Unhurt In Truck-Auto Mishap Here

A Columbus motorist escaped injury on Route 23 near South Bloomfield late Wednesday when his auto was demolished in a headon crash with a tractor-trailer truck.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff said the accident occurred at 7:20 p. m. and was the result of a "triple pass."

The deputy said two autos were travelling south on Route 23 in front of the tractor-trailer, operated by Thomas Johnson, 28, of Michigan.

The lead car in the procession pulled to the right to park on the berm while the car behind it started to pass. The truck attempted to pass the passing auto then, he said.

Meanwhile, an auto coming from the opposite direction, operated by Albert Simpson, 39, of Columbus, pulled over onto the berm in an effort to avoid colliding headon with the tractor-trailer, Radcliff said.

Jury Hearing Traffic Case In Court Here

Andrew Jacobs, 74, of West Water street was being tried Thursday before a jury in Pickaway County common pleas court on an accusation of leaving the scene of an accident.

Jacobs was arrested Oct. 10 by Circleville police for failing to stop after his auto allegedly collided with a parked car on South Washington street owned by David Montgomery.

He was bound over to the grand jury on $200 bond in mayor's court here. Prosecutor Guy Cline bypassed grand jury action by filing an information, bringing Jacobs into common pleas court for hearing.

treaties will be made more difficult. And, in any event, it will be increasingly difficult to get Senate ratification in many instances by the two-thirds majority required.

There had been earlier reports that Acheson might be elevated to the U. S. Supreme Court, an honor he would likely appreciate. He came to Washington as the law clerk of the late Justice Prandeis.

MOREOVER, TAFT, with his eye on the White House in 1952 and concentration on international matters, might well get a place on the committee, if only to accentuate the issues.

The administration will be further handicapped by the defeat of Sens. Pepper of Florida and Tydings of Maryland. Both of these have been staunch admnistration supporters.

In this situation, Acheson will have a much harder time than in the past to put his measures across. Consequently, Mr. Truman my feel that his retirement would be in the best interests of the country.

There have been reports that Acheson might be elevated to the U. S. Supreme Court, an honor he would likely appreciate. He came to Washington as the law clerk of the late Justice Prandeis.

Saltcreek Tax Levy Approved, Board Says

Pickaway County board of elections officials announced Thursday that the three-mill tax levy renewal for Saltcreek Township school has passed.

The board was puzzled as to whether the levy had passed following the Tuesday election because the Saltcreek polling board had forgotten to tabulate its vote in the ballot book.

However, the election board figures were present on the summary sheet in good order and the issue has passed.

Complete vote for Saltcreek and Tarlton, both of whom voted for the levy, was: Saltcreek, 213 in favor of the levy, 107 opposed; and Tarlton, 82 in favor, 32 opposed.

Total vote for the two precincts on the levy was 295 in favor and only 139 opposed.

Half-Million Said Massed For Action

that 24th Division's armored patrol, "with the aid of friendly air forces, attacked this enemy force, inflicting heavy casualties and causing it to withdraw north."

The First Corps spokesman said 165 Red troops were captured in the northwest sector Wednesday. He did not indicate whether any Chinese were among the prisoners. Nor was it known whether the captured group consisted of stragglers left behind when the main Red forces broke contact and began withdrawing four days ago.

The First Corps officer said intensive low-level aerial reconnaissance uncovered "no enemy movement" in the northwest sector during the 48 hours up to Thursday night.

However, there remained the possibility that the Reds were carrying out a large-scale regrouping for a coming major push down the center of North Korea designed to split the UN forces in two.

AERIALLY observed movements on both sides of the Yalu river boundary indicated also that the enemy's front-line troops are awaiting fresh reinforcements from Manchuria.

From the South Korean Second Army Corps' front near the middle of the peninsula, INS War Correspondent Bernard Kaplan reported that the Rok (Republic of Korea) Eighth Division captured Tokchon late Thursday.

Kaplan's midnight field dispatch said the South Koreans then pushed some distance to the north of the key town which lies astride an important lateral rail-highway route across North Korea's waist.

The Rok Eighth was subjected to heavy mortar fire from Communist positions in the hills north of Tokchon Wednesday. But late Thursday they managed to enter the town which the Reds had abandoned and took some high ground to the north against minor resistance.

American military advisers with the Rok Second Corps said Rok Seventh Division troops seized Wonni, just east of the Chongchon bridgehead area, after a 1,000-yard advance.

Wonni was the scene of a violent battle less than a week ago when the Reds attempted to drive down to the vital hub of Kunuri, six miles to the southwest.

Kaplan's dispatch pointed out that the South Korean capture of Tokchon and Wonni appeared to bear out reports that the Reds have withdrawn to shift their main strength eastward.

Such a shift would presage a possible enemy effort to drive a wedge down Korea's central "mountain spine" between the U. S. Eighth Army in the west and the American 10th Corps in the east.

Partial Closing Scheduled Here For Saturday

Circleville Postoffice, banks, library and city and county offices will be closed Saturday in observance of Armistice Day.

However, Circleville merchants will conduct business as usual Saturday along with local industry.

Schools, although dismissed for the weekend on Saturday, are expected to have observances of some kind on Friday. The school observances will be held either in the room or in assembly.

Circleville postoffice will be closed for the day, although its city mail clerks will make deliveries. No mail deliveries are to be made, however, and the windows will be closed.

Four Building Permits OKd

Four Circleville building permits have been issued by the city planning and zoning commission. The permits were issued to:

John Rhoads of 888 North Court street to construct a fence. Cost was estimated at $15.

Given Oil Company to build a $100 loading platform at 148 Corwin street.

Allen Shaeffer of York street to build a toilet. Cost was estimated at $25.

Chinese Reds May Plan Sweep Of Whole Of Korea

next few weeks an element of critical importance.

The Chinese Communists themselves have proclaimed their aim of driving the United Nations from Korea—a maneuver which historically is a strategic necessity for any conqueror in Northeast Asia.

The Peiping Radio — official voice of Communist China—proclaimed this aim of all-out victory Tuesday when it said that Chinese intervention will bring about the "possibility of turning the tide of war, annihilating and repulsing unconsolidated American invading troops and forcing the aggressors to accept a just and peaceful solution of the Korean question."

The high official close to MacArthur outlined his personal views which it can be assumed are known by and possibly shared by MacArthur.

THIS SOURCE discounted speculation that the Chinese withdrew to await a political settlement of the Korean war, saying:

"That is one possibility among many but I would give it absolutely the lowest priority."

He explained further:

"If they were motivated by a desire for a political settlement, they would increase rather than decrease pressure on United Nations forces. They would want their threat to be as great as possible during the time political settlement was being discussed."

The official said in his view the Chinese threw some forces into the line, made some gains but suffered such heavy losses from UN ground and air action they withdrew to await reinforcements.

The official said that the Chinese know that all American and most other foreign units in Korea already have been committed at the front, so the UN manpower pool does not have the reserve that the Chinese Reds have with an estimated half million soldiers in Manchuria.

Therefore, he said, the Chinese know they can delay their offensive many days awaiting arrival of new manpower before attacking and still be safe from any decisive influx of UN manpower.

Self-Slapping Plan For Law Violators Talked

A new idea designed to cut down minor traffic violations is being considered for Pickaway County.

Magistrate Oscar Root of Circleville said he picked up the idea Wednesday during a meeting of the Ohio Magistrates' Association in Columbus.

"In some places," he said, "part of the fines for minor traffic offenses are being suspended on one condition.

"That condition is that the offender post a sticker on his car which reads 'Traffic Violator.' "

The squire said that in counties where the system is being used now it is proving to be effective.

"I hope to ask Pickaway County courts to adopt the plan," said Root. "I'll make the proposal when we get together again."

Pickaway County magistrates, mayors and law enforcement officials meet here every three months to discuss problems. The proposal is expected to be made during the next meeting of the group.

Restrainer OKd By Court Here

A divorce petition has been filed in Pickaway County common pleas court by Ruby Teets against Robert R. Teets.

The couple was married June 21, 1947, in Ashville. They have one child. The wife accuses the husband of gross neglect and abandonment.

She asks for the divorce, alimony, custody of the child and a restraining order to keep the husband from disposing of property. The order was granted by Judge William D. Radcliff.

Francis Denies Hunting Rumor

Pickaway County Game Protector Clarence Francis declared Thursday that it will be illegal for anyone to hunt pheasants or rabbits here before next Wednesday.

"Someone has started a rumor in the county that high school kids will be allowed to shoot game Saturday," Francis said.

Cost Of War: 28,235 Casualties

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 — The Defense Department announced today that verified American casualties in Korea up to Nov. 3 totalled 28,235—an increase of 625 over the last report on Oct. 27.

The new figure includes 4,655 dead, 4,159 of them killed in action and 492 fatally wounded. The wounded total is 19,301, and there are 3,672 men still missing.

Bit Of History Is Dug Up By City Workmen

A bit of Pickaway County history is being dug up by workmen engaged in the construction of the new Circleville water gallery.

Ervin Leist, city water department manager, said walnut logs from two to three feet in diameter have been found 20 feet underground at the site of the new gallery.

"They are completely waterlogged," Leist said, "and probably would petrify if allowed to remain there long enough. It is an indication that at one time Darby Creek must have flowed over the site."

Leist said that in addition to the logs, periwinkle shells and huge boulders have been uncovered.

"It is a spot," said Leist, "where you wouldn't expect to find any boulders at all."

He said work on the new gallery has progressed well beyond the halfway mark, is expected to be completed by the end of the month.

"The contractor has about 35 joints to put in. Each joint is four feet long, and an average of three joints a day are laid," Leist explained.

Construction of a manhole will be all that remains after the 400-foot gallery is laid to complete the job.

vania, Gov. James H. Duff, elected to the Senate over the Democratic whip, Sen. Francis Myers, may be heard of two years hence. So too, the new Sen. Everett Dirksen, who defeated Democratic Leader Scott Lucas in Illinois.

TAFT WILL be an outstanding figure in the national political arena throughout the next two years. A coalition of Southern Conservative Democrats plus the Republicans is certain to rule the Senate.

It's recalled that Sen. Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia went into Ohio in the closing hours of the campaign and spoke well of Taft. This now means that Byrd and Taft will be friendly comrades in many a legislative battle. It means whenever they agree, Taft and Byrd—not the President—will control the Senate.

In the House of Representativs, a similar situation will exist.

Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts and Rep. Gene Cox, (D) of Georgia, may well be the coalition leaders of the House, rather than Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas.

The Republicans captured eight new governorships Tuesday, giving them 26 out of the 48. And many of the Democratic governors are in Southern states.

The Republicans will have strong statehouse organizations two years hence in New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Utah, Colorado, the Dakotas, California, Oregon and Washington. They will have governors in Montana and the three Southwest states, Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada simultaneously for the first time in history.

Those state machines will be of great help to the GOP in 1952.

The Democrats meanwhile will have governors in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Ohio, Illinois and Indiana among important northern states.

In the coming days, the Republicans will join the Democrats in rearming the nation against Communist aggression. But the GOP will demand partnership in foreign affairs in return for that support.

Driver Unhurt In Truck-Auto Mishap Here

A Columbus motorist escaped injury on Route 23 near South Bloomfield late Wednesday when his auto was demolished in a headon crash with a tractor-trailer truck.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff said the accident occurred at 7:20 p. m. and was the result of a "triple pass."

The deputy said two autos were travelling south on Route 23 in front of the tractor-trailer, operated by Thomas Johnson, 28, of Michigan.

The lead car in the procession pulled to the right to park on the berm while the car behind it started to pass. The truck attempted to pass the passing auto then, he said.

Meanwhile, an auto coming from the opposite direction, operated by Albert Simpson, 39, of Columbus, pulled over onto the berm in an effort to avoid colliding headon with the tractor-trailer, Radcliff said.

But the truck smashed into the auto almost headon, anyway.

Jury Hearing Traffic Case In Court Here

Andrew Jacobs, 74, of West Water street was being tried Thursday before a jury in Pickaway County common pleas court on an accusation of leaving the scene of an accident.

Jacobs was arrested Oct. 10 by Circleville police for failing to stop after his auto allegedly collided with a parked car on South Washington street owned by David Montgomery.

He was bound over to the grand jury on $200 bond in mayor's court here. Prosecutor Guy Cline bypassed grand jury action by filing an information, bringing Jacobs into common pleas court for hearing.

8 County Men Face Induction

Eight Pickaway County men will be inducted into the armed forces in the county's eighth draft call Dec. 12.

Local draft officials said the call is for men born prior to July 1, 1929.

Acheson Due To Resign?

treaties will be made more difficult. And, in any event, it will be increasingly difficult to get Senate ratification in many instances by the two-thirds majority required.

There had been earlier reports that Taft would seek a place on Committee. With its enlargement this might be quite possible.

MOREOVER, TAFT, with his eye on the White House in 1952 and concentration on international matters, might well get a place on the committee, if only to accentuate the issues.

The administration will be further handicapped by the defeat of Sens. Pepper of Florida and Tydings of Maryland. Both of these have been staunch administration supporters.

In this situation, Acheson will have a much harder time than in the past to put his measures across. Consequently, Mr. Truman my feel that his retirement would be in the best interests of the country.

There have been reports that Acheson might be elevated to the U. S. Supreme Court, an honor he would likely appreciate. He came to Washington as the law clerk of the late Justice Prandeis.

Saltcreek Tax Levy Approved, Board Says

Pickaway County board of elections officials announced Thursday that the three-mill tax levy renewal for Saltcreek Township school has passed.

The board was puzzled as to whether the levy had passed following the Tuesday election because the Saltcreek polling board had forgotten to tabulate its vote in the ballot book.

However, the election board figures were present on the summary sheet in good order and the issue has passed.

Complete vote for Saltcreek and Tarlton, both of whom voted for the levy, was: Saltcreek, 213 in favor of the levy, 107 opposed; and Tarlton, 82 in favor, 32 opposed.

Total vote for the two precincts on the levy was 295 in favor and only 139 opposed.

COLUMBUS TO BE 'HOME'

Circus Coming Back Here, But Only On Way Through

Pickaway Countians will have a fleeting glimpse of a three-year neighbor shortly, for it's homecoming time for the Mills Bros. Circus.

The big red fleet of the circus, which Wintered on Pickaway Fairgrounds three seasons but which this year is to quarter on Ohio State Fairgrounds in Columbus, is expected to roll through Circleville sometime Thursday, Nov. 16, on the last leg of a homeward jump of nearly 700 miles from Sumter, S. C.

The circus, which launched its 11th annual tour at the fairgrounds here last Spring, just as it previously opened its ninth and 10th seasons, concludes its season of 30 weeks and two days in Sumter Monday.

Since appearing here for the Pickaway Children's Home on April 15, the circus has visited 16 states, played six state capitals, and traveled as far west as Nebraska, north virtually to the Canadian border, east to the Atlantic seaboard and south to the Carolinas and Georgia. It equaled the 1949 tour as the lengthiest in the 11-year history of the circus run by brothers Jack, Jake and Harry Mills.

AS LAST YEAR, the circus will be enlarged again this Winter, Jack Mlils reported, and Winter expenditures, he said, will run to $100,000 or more.

The circus this season covered more than 9000 miles, and never missed a performance. It appeared everywhere under sponsorship of civic and charitable organizatiions, raising money for local causes.

When it launches the 12th annual tour in Columbus next April, the traditional opening-day banquet, held in Memorial Hall here three times, again will be staged, but this time at a Columbus spot. Some 350 people from 12 states were here for the 1950 opening banquet.

A few performers are to come back with the fleet, but the imported foreign troupes, including English, Dutch, Chinese, South African, Cuban and other foreign stars, who made their first American tours the Mills show, left at Sumter. They go back to their native countries for the Winter.

Charles (Brady) Vensel again will be in charge of the Mills Winter quarters. A bustling building program is scheduled for the next five months, including construction of a number of new trucks and buses, new properties and rigging, plus addition of new electric light plants, cages for new wild animals to be added for '51, and addition of several more elephants to the herd.

Booking agent Hans Lederer of New York, who handles foreign importations, has consulted with the Mills brothers recently on tour and will visit their Cleveland home again shortly to line up the many importations scheduled for next Spring. The seating capacity of the circus will be increased for '51, and a number of camels, more horses, and new canvas are among other new items scheduled.

Returning with the circus are four Circleville persons—Indian Chief Clifford White Eagle, his mother, Princess White Cloud, and sister, Princess Red Wing, and also Proctor Baughman, circus big show announcer and reserved seat ticket superintendent.

57 Questioned Before Murder Jury Is Seated

MEDINA, Nov. 9—The state is expected to start presenting its case late today against 17-year-old Gerald Killinger of Medina for the shotgun slaying of Harold E. Mast.

A general feeling against capital punishment for minors held up final selection of a jury yesterday, but a temporary jury of six men and six women was temporarily seated at the end of the day.

More than 15 of the 57 prospective jurors questioned were excused when they admitted opposing capital punishment for minors. Seventeen others were excused for various reasons. Some said they had already formed opinions. Others admitted knowing persons involved in the case.

Killinger is accused of killing Mast so that his friend, Max Amerman, 27, could woo Mast's widow, Randi. Amerman, who was east establishing an alibi at the time of the slaying, is to be tried separately for conspiring with Killinger to kill Mast.

In 1796 General Moses Cleveland laid out for the Connecticut Land Company the city of Cleveland in the middle of a 120-mile stretch of Lake Erie shore line owned by the company.

TV-Radio Programs

Programs listed in the following television log contain errors daily, the fault resting entirely with broadcasters and not with The Herald. Intent of this newspaper is to provide accurate information for subscribers, but finds this impossible so far as the three Columbus television stations are concerned. The programs printed are assembled from information sent out by the Columbus stations and are not to be regarded seriously. Complaints about inaccuracies in program listings should be made to the broadcasting stations and not to The Herald. Because of continuing inaccuracies, The Herald has been forced to delete all TV programs prior to 6 p. m. Radio programs are evening network listings.

Witness Says Detective Is Party-Goer

CHICAGO, Nov. 9—A volunteer witness says the life of at least one "private eye"—the detective a Chicago millionaire hired to watch his wife—is a busy round of drinking, dating, dancing—and hangovers.

Mrs. Margaret Reading, 29-year-old former hostess at a Miami Beach hotel, testified yesterday that she watched Frank Marlin—hired by Cosmetics King J. Leslie Younghusband to trail his fifth wife, Mary Louise—try with no success to ply the latter with drinks.

She took the stand in a Chicago circuit court hearing on Mrs. Younghusband's claim for temporary alimony pending a divorce action. The 55-year-old cosmetics manufacturer and his wife have filed suits accusing each other of adultery.

Mrs. Reading said Marlin and another detective, Robert Parcells, dated such noted guests as Mrs. Horace Heidt, wife of the bandleader, Playgirl Lenore Lemmon and Heiress Delores Debello at the North Shore hotel in Miami Beach.

Search Widens For Man In Murder Case

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9 — A search widened today for a 35-year-old Newport, Ky., man wanted for questioning in connection with the recovery of a bound and weighted body of a woman from the Ohio river near Cincinnati.

The identity of a second woman's body, decapitated, legless and armless, remained a mystery to Hamilton County authorities who are examining the torso recovered from the river a short distance from Cincinnati late Monday.

Mrs. Ralph Borchers of Covington, Ky., tentatively identified the first body as that of her sister, Norma Jean Isaacs, 18, who disappeared several days ago. She swore out a murder warrant for William Trewe of Newport.

A coroner's examination of the body believed to be that of the Isaacs girl showed that she was an expectant mother and had died of a skull fracture two weeks ago. The body had been bound and weighted with five pieces of lead.

I Wish To Express My

THANKS

Booking agent Hans Lederer of New York, who handles foreign importations, has consulted with the Mills brothers recently on tour and will visit their Cleveland home again shortly to line up the many importations scheduled for next Spring. The seating capacity of the circus will be increased for '51, and a number of camels, more horses, and new canvas are among other new items scheduled.

Returning with the circus are four Circleville persons—Indian Chief Clifford White Eagle, his mother, Princess White Cloud, and sister, Princess Red Wing, and also Proctor Baughman, circus big show announcer and reserved seat ticket superintendent.

57 Questioned Before Murder Jury Is Seated

MEDINA, Nov. 9—The state is expected to start presenting its case late today against 17-year-old Gerald Killinger of Medina for the shotgun slaying of Harold E. Mast.

A general feeling against capital punishment for minors held up final selection of a jury yesterday, but a temporary jury of six men and six women was temporarily seated at the end of the day.

More than 15 of the 57 prospective jurors questioned were excused when they admitted opposing capital punishment for minors. Seventeen others were excused for various reasons. Some said they had already formed opinions. Others admitted knowing persons involved in the case.

Killinger is accused of killing Mast so that his friend, Max Amerman, 27, could woo Mast's widow, Randi. Amerman, who was east establishing an alibi at the time of the slaying, is to be tried separately for conspiring with Killinger to kill Mast.

In 1796 General Moses Cleveland laid out for the Connecticut Land Company the city of Cleveland in the middle of a 120-mile stretch of Lake Erie shore line owned by the company.

TV-Radio Programs

Programs listed in the following television log contain errors daily, the fault resting entirely with broadcasters and not with The Herald. Intent of this newspaper is to provide accurate information for subscribers, but finds this impossible so far as the three Columbus television stations are concerned. The programs printed are assembled from information sent out by the Columbus stations and are not to be regarded seriously. Complaints about inaccuracies in program listings should be made to the broadcasting stations and not to The Herald. Because of continuing inaccuracies, The Herald has been forced to delete all TV programs prior to 6 p. m. Radio programs are evening network listings.

Search Widens For Man In Murder Case

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9 — A search widened today for a 35-year-old Newport, Ky., man wanted for questioning in connection with the recovery of a bound and weighted body of a woman from the Ohio river near Cincinnati.

The identity of a second woman's body, decapitated, legless and armless, remained a mystery to Hamilton County authorities who are examining the torso recovered from the river a short distance from Cincinnati late Monday.

Mrs. Ralph Borchers of Covington, Ky., tentatively identified the first body as that of her sister, Norma Jean Isaacs, 18, who disappeared several days ago. She swore out a murder warrant for William Trewe of Newport.

A coroner's examination of the body believed to be that of the Isaacs girl showed that she was an expectant mother and had died of a skull fracture two weeks ago. The body had been bound and weighted with five pieces of lead.

IT'S A GRAND homecoming for M/Sgt. Joe W. Gernand, arriving at Riverside, Cal., from Korean war duty, as he sees his 3-month-old baby Stevie for first time. Wife Gene and 9-year-old daughter Joann crowd in close. Gernand is a line chief with the Air Force 22nd bomb group, a B-29 outfit which caved in Red installations. (International)

Witness Says Detective Is Party-Goer

CHICAGO, Nov. 9—A volunteer witness says the life of at least one "private eye"—the detective a Chicago millionaire hired to watch his wife—is a busy round of drinking, dating, dancing—and hangovers.

Mrs. Margaret Reading, 29-year-old former hostess at a Miami Beach hotel, testified yesterday that she watched Frank Marlin—hired by Cosmetics King J. Leslie Younghusband to trail his fifth wife, Mary Louise—try with no success to ply the latter with drinks.

She took the stand in a Chicago circuit court hearing on Mrs. Younghusband's claim for temporary alimony pending a divorce action. The 55-year-old cosmetics manufacturer and his wife have filed suits accusing each other of adultery.

Mrs. Reading said Marlin and another detective, Robert Parcells, dated such noted guests as Mrs. Horace Heidt, wife of the bandleader, Playgirl Lenore Lemmon and Heiress Delores Debello at the North Shore hotel in Miami Beach.

One of the pair, she added, seldom ate breakfast because of a recurring hangover.

Looking Ahead

By George Benson
President

A friend of mine is building a new home. He frankly admits he is not financially able to pay for it on the basis of his present income. He's gambling on inflation.

If, because of inflation, the dollar continues to lose purchasing power, the $15,000 house my friend is building may cost him only half as much, or even only a tenth as much, as it is valued on the basis of today's dollars.

In other words, if inflation continues he figures his income, in unit dollars, will be doubled within about five years without his real earning capacity or actual day-to-day purchasing power having been improved. With his additional supply of the cheaper dollar, he then could easily pay the fixed installments on his home.

If my friend wins his gamble the people who hold the mortgage on his home will find his notes being paid off with 50 cent dollars for the 100 cent dollar they paid to his building contractors. Thus they would lose in proportion to his gain.

BUT IT IS INFINITELY more serious than that. If my friend wins his gamble on a substantial degree of inflation continuing for another five years, the national economy may go on to disaster. Values would be virtually wiped out and a likely result would be economic collapse and probably panic; and in the end, he likely would lose his unpaid-for home in a severe depression.

The strength of America, as a nation among nations, is based on the stability of our economy. Our production for national defense, as well as our peacetime progress, is founded on that stability. Production depends on the ability of our industries and farms to pay our workers a wage that can be transformed into the necessities of life.

If fiscal conditions should become excessively strained, the pillars of our productivity would begin to crumble.

Every sober-minded economist in the country is worried. The worry also extends to all those in our government who believe in the American freedom system and want it to survive. Its chances of survival are good if political expediency is tossed out the window and sound reasoning and a spirit of patriotic service is immediately brought into the consideration of our growing acute monetary problems. The chances aren't good if this isn't done.

A few evenings ago in St. Louis, I sat at a dinner and heard a blunt warning voiced by Dr. Walter E. Spahr, head of the Department of Economics of New York University and one of the nation's foremost authorities on public finance.

"THE DOLLAR," he said, "is going to be worth about 10 cents in purchasing power unless the nation wakes up from its monetary dream. Large income figures, large totals of insurance, of profits, of wage payments, all in terms of a depreciated dollar, serve to feed our illusions.

"Our mounting and fabulous figures on life insurance totaled $214 billion in 1949. But we say nothing about the fact that this total has less value than the $101 billion in 1932 or the $111 billion of 1939. We are in the temporary stage of widespread enjoyment of the intoxication of rising prices. The illusions are similar to those of the opium smoker."

When you consider the fact that since 1940 the dollar has lost nearly 50 percent of its purchasing power the loss is bigger in the house building field), Dr. Spahr's warning carries added authority.

We must call a halt to inflation now. But how

1) Balance the federal budget; (2) Reduce non-military expenditures to a point where the addition of the necessary big preparedness program will still permit the taxpayers to pay-as-we-go without paralizing commerce; (3) Establish a stable backing for the U. S. currency; (4) Restore confidence in the stability of government securities so the debt can be widely distributed in the form of savings bonds, thus reducing the supply of inflationary money; (5) Resolve, all of us, to temporarily sacrifice a substantial degree of our present living standard to meet the national preparedness cost.

If the people of America get actively behind such a program my home-building friend will lose his gamble on continued inflation; but his, and everybody else's chance of owning a home and continuing to live in a free, prosperous America will be immeasurably enhanced.

Bird in hand that's a Beauty and a Buy!

Now it can be told. This clean-lined, smart-stepping 1950 version is the most popular Buick ever built.

Ever since early in the present year, a value-wise public has been taking them away from us as fast as—or faster than—the great Buick factories could roll them out. Within recent weeks, production and sales have set an all-time record.

Count off the distinguished and time-tried features of this winner and you'll know why.

It has a Very Exclusive Motor—Buick's own high-compression Fireball—which gets its driving power from a combustion chamber found in no other car in the world.

It has the bump-smothering softness of coil springs on all four wheels and a torque-tube drive—a comfort combination that no other car provides.

It has Dynaflow Drive*—which ushered in a whole new concept of effortless travel.

It has a brilliant styling which sets it apart from every other car on the road.

And it has prices which say "buy me" to any motorist who's looking for maximum money's worth.

Isn't it sensible, while these great cars are still coming off the line, to check with your Buick dealer about getting one to call your own?

Only Buick has Dynaflow—and with it goes:

HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD forefront, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights • WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube • WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.

Bird in hand that's a Beauty and a Buy!

Now it can be told. This clean-lined, smart-stepping 1950 version is the most popular Buick ever built.

Ever since early in the present year, a value-wise public has been taking them away from us as fast as—or faster than—the great Buick factories could roll them out. Within recent weeks, production and sales have set an all-time record.

Count off the distinguished and time-tried features of this winner and you'll know why.

It has a Very Exclusive Motor—Buick's own high-compression Fireball—which gets its driving power from a combustion chamber found in no other car in the world.

It has the bump-smothering softness of coil springs on all four wheels and a torque-tube drive—a comfort combination that no other car provides.

It has Dynaflow Drive*—which ushered in a whole new concept of effortless travel.

It has a brilliant styling which sets it apart from every other car on the road.

And it has prices which say "buy me" to any motorist who's looking for maximum money's worth.

Isn't it sensible, while these great cars are still coming off the line, to check with your Buick dealer about getting one to call your own?

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

Only Buick has Dynaflow— and with it goes:

HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD forefront, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights • WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube • WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.

WANTED—$3,000,000

POSSESSED of a great narrative gift and a sure instinct for what the market wants, W. Somerset Maugham is one of the most popular living authors in English. His rewards, in prestige and cash, have been large. An expert craftsman, his opinions on the art of writing must be heard with respect.

At an author's luncheon in New York City, Mr. Maugham said: "You do precious little for literature in the United States." What he meant was that precious little is done for budding writers. He pointed out that there was a time when a publisher could afford to take a risk on a book that might sell 2,000 copies. Now publishers want to count on a sale of 10,000 copies, thus leaving a slim chance for young authors.

Mr. Maugham had a suggestion. Why not induce a Texas millionaire to give $3,000,000 as an endowment that would assure a living to young writers, send them abroad to travel in Europe, even house about a dozen of them under 30 in a chateau near Paris. Then let them write.

Such is the nature of talent, such is the problem of writing, that there could be no assurance that within a three-year period, for instance, literature would be produced. But said Mr. Maugham:

If, once in 10 years, it enables an author to produce a work which is an enrichment to our life, it will be well worth while and money well spent.

Life just now needs enrichment and understanding. But there are some Americans—isolationists, no doubt—who will be unable to understand why this manna must come from the atmosphere of Paris instead of the more salubrious climate of the United States.

LONGER HOURS

PROPOSAL by President Wilson of General Motors that the work week temporarily be extended to 45 hours to boost defense production and assure output of sufficient consumer goods to combat inflation is under attack by organized labor. Emil Mazey of the United Auto Workers says Wilson wants employees to put in five more hours of work without being paid time and a half for it.

However you slice the proposal, it still sums up to the fact that the United States is on a 40-hour week (in some cases less) while the workers of Russia and its satellites are on the job much longer hours. The U. S. has the advantage of volume production, but this could be overcome.

It is necessary to produce military weapons and keep the volume of consumer goods flowing so overabundant money will not continue to bid up the price of scarce goods. As of now, longer hours are clearly indicated.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Czarist Russia used the Orthodox church as an arm of government. It was a national church, at the head of which stood the czar. The church itself was not directed by its ecclesiastical authority but by a civilian official, the Procurator of the Holy Synod.

This developed into a vast propagandistic arm of the Russian government for the spread of pan-Slavism, the concept that the Slavic races have a special destiny and will ultimately rule the world.

Bolsheviks and other revolutionary groups hated the Orthodox church as they hate all religions of God, whatever their concept of the supernatural. In Lenin's time, the "Society of the Godless" was unremitting in its persecutions, but Stalin, who has studied to be a priest, recognized that the church could be useful to him.

The Orthodox church was revived as an organ of the state and was again developed as an agent of Red pan-Slavism in the countries where the population is predominantly Slavic.

Meanwhile, the Roman Catholic, Jewish and Moslem religions are being persecuted, not so much for their religious concepts as for their international relationships, which the Stalinists call "cosmopolitanism," that is, an association with non-Communists.

For instance, the arrest of Cardinal Mindszenty in Hungary was a political act, designed not only to break the back of the Roman Catholic church in Hungary but to crush the relationship to Rome. In each of their countries, the Russians are developing, with great success, a national catholic church; that is, a catholic church which follows the rites and rituals of Roman Catholicism but has no affiliation with Rome.

These are not Protestant or Schismatic churches; they are branches torn from the tree by the strong arm of the state. Such churches are subordinated to the government.

By outlawing Zionism and rejecting Hebrew as a language, by discouraging the existence of synagogues and Yeshivas, Judaism is being strangled in Communist countries. Judaism does not lend itself to a controllable national church. It is a religion of the individual, communally associated but not dominated. The Jews have no religious hierarchy. The rabbi is a teacher, not a priest. Anyone can perform religious services, and some of the most emotionally satisfying are in the home rather than in the synagogue, as for instance, the Passover service.

Therefore the Jewish synagogue is of no value as an instrument of power and is persecuted. Even Ana Pauker of Rumania, herself a Jewess, whose father is reported to be in Israel, is a persecutor of the Jews.

LOOK OUT for LIZA

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

THE ENORMOUS, comfortable living room opened from the terrace, and as Kathy and Liza entered, Fleming was saying, with some heat:

"I am not arguing that Meren is estimable. He's not. And I am not taking his brilliance into consideration. I'm just remarking that he has had real provocation—"

"You're too tolerant," said Hiram, "even for a doctor.

"If this is gossip," commented Kathy, "something in which males, of course, never indulge, do let us in on it. Paul, give Liza a cocktail. Or would you rather have something else?"

"Sherry, if you have it," said Liza. "If not, tomato juice."

"Liza's abstemious insistence upon sherry is charming," said Fleming. "But it's far from a temperance drink."

"It all depends upon how much of it you do drink," said Liza and accepted a moderate glass.

Kathy said, "You can't get away with it, Bob. What's the argument about, Jennings Meren?"

"Is that the automobile man?" inquired Liza.

"The same. We weren't really arguing," Paul Goddard said.

"I play bridge with his wife," said Kathy. "Do you think you belong to an exclusive club, Paul? Everyone knows about that dreadful woman."

"She isn't dreadful," contradicted Fleming, "merely misguided."

"Men!" lamented Kathy, and Liza smiled.

Fleming shook his head. "You shock me," he said solemnly. "The intolerance of women toward women. Kathy, if you say you like Mrs. Meren, I shan't believe you."

"I don't like her. But in such a case it behooves wives to stand together."

"Calling all wives," murmured her husband, "and sometimes what you call 'em—"

Hiram Mason said finally, "Meren has made a fool of himself. One day he'll regret it."

Kathy said, "I dare say he does now. I am not being intolerant of Cora whatever-her-name-is, Paul. I don't know her. Even not knowing her, I'm sorry for her too. But the Merens were married over thirty years ago. They were poor, they worked hard; Alma Meren as hard as her husband. If one is to credit the stories, she believed in him when no one else did; she begged and borrowed for him. It is sad when you see a man turn from his wife to a much younger woman after years of marriage. I know it happens every day. Yet it remains sad—and frightening."

Paul said soothingly, "I am stuck with you, darling. No one else would have me."

Kathy said, "I was present upon a historic occasion, a big charity shindig—very social, very solid, also boring. I was with a group of women—bankers' wives mostly, Hiram, when Mrs. Meren came in, clad in dignity and a fur coat and, at practically the same moment, Cora arrived, also in a fur coat. It created a sensation. Mrs. Meren's was mink and Cora's was sable."

Hiram said, "The man has no decency. He positively flaunts her—"

"Lovely word 'flaunt,'" said Fleming. "But Meren would have married Cora years ago if his wife had consented to a divorce."

"All very well," argued Hiram. "I know a little about the situation and am willing to admit that for a long time Meren and his wife have been unhappy and that she makes a grave mistake in not permitting a divorce, as there are no children. However, if a man must make a fool of himself, why not in private?"

Liza, feeling sufficiently briefed, spoke for the first time.

"George used to say that there was much to be said for the so-called Victorian hypocrisies," she remarked. "He said it preserved certain illusions. It did not shout its sins, family discussions, and difficulties from the housetops but kept them within soundproof walls. And gave a man the opportunity to repent and return home to his carpet slippers and newspaper. Also, in those days, a wife was secure. She might not handle the money but she ran the home and brought up the children. She was rarely subjected to public humiliation. If she suffered, it was in private and her own concern. She had the name, the status, and if she was patient, Papa always came home and remained there."

Hiram said, "Well, there's something in that."

"Not for me," said Fleming, "for I have progressed with the times. George, too. I don't think he believed that, Liza. He was just having his usual good time promulgating a theory, however cockeyed, and then trying to prove it in argument."

"As a matter of fact," Liza said, "he did believe it, Robert. He said that, up to the turn of the century or a little later, an illicit affair had a certain amount of glamor. It meant Parma violets, hansom cabs, veils, and private dining rooms. It meant scented notes and secrecy. But nowadays, he said, practically no affair was secret and in ratio to the publicity it received it lost its charm."

Everyone laughed but, looking up, Liza saw Hiram Mason regarding her with speculation. Oh dear, she thought, I forgot he was here. Not that he'd know a Parma violet from a bank statement. Still she was vaguely aware that she had received a warning and before many hours had, most pleasantly, elapsed he had taken her off to see the terrace by moonlight and inquired what evening next week they could dine.

On Sunday afternoon Fleming, Paul and Liza were on the terrace. The air was warm and delicious. And Hiram, who believed in outdoor exercise, had persuaded Kathy to take him walking. Liza was lying in a long chair, drowsily listening to the birds busy about the housing situation, to the leaves applauding, and to Fleming and Paul talking.

"You haven't been near me," said Fleming.

"Don't need to, I feel fine, since I took your advice."

"So you said last night. But I didn't tell you to get so involved again. I merely suggested you find an interest and work at it, but not too hard."

"I am working and not hard enough to hurt."

Fleming looked down at Liza. He said, "Remember my telling you about Paul—which was how I discovered you knew him and Kathy?"

"Of course."

"Pity I didn't give him up when I decided to specialize," said Fleming; "he's an unsatisfactory patient. But I would cling to a few of the old ones. Sentiment, no doubt. I advised him to retire, which was wise at the time. When he grew restless, I told him to unretire, but only to a degree."

"I'm not killing myself," Paul remonstrated. His lean, lined face was alive with humor and the wind ruffled his scant gray hair. "But there's nothing like a little gamble to make a man come alive. The trouble with my own interests was that there was no gamble left in 'em."

Fleming shrugged. "Well, if Associated Products was a gamble, Paul, I dare say the odds were on your side."

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Not everyone was pleased with the results of the elections, but this is one purchase we can't try on for size and return for credit.

We know 16 party leaders who aren't quite sure now whether they had the right candidates in the wrong year or the wrong candidates in the right year.

But they've got two years in which to make up another losing slate.

Anyway, all we expect of our newly-elected officials is they will forgive and forget as quickly as possible—forgive their enemies and forget their promises.

One fellow who promised more schools won by 1 votes and changed his mind. He said: "If the people get any smarter, I'm through."

Now if you're quite finished with tabulating the election returns you might get on to working up your tax return.

Nothing that happened in this election improved our individual position with the Treasury Department.

Stubborn Symptom to Cure

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ITCHING or pruritus, as it is known technically, forms the chief discomfort in a great variety of disorders. There is no more stubborn symptom in the whole list than itching, and none so likely to annoy the patient to the point of infuriation.

It is one of the worst features of eczema, which so often affects babies and young children, prominent in skin inflammations due to contact with irritating substances, such as poison ivy, and a well-known aftermath of insect bites. Itching may follow sunburn. It is severe in urticaria or hives. Then there is the skin condition known as psoriasis in which patches covered with gray scales form on the skin, particularly over the elbows and knees, and cause at times marked itching.

Itching Disorder

Of course, in every case of an itching disorder, an attempt must be made to find the cause of the disturbance so that it may be eliminated. When this is not possible, and even while such efforts are being carried out, the use of applications of one type or another to relieve the itching is required.

Recently, a large number of patients, more than 140, who had various types of itching disturbances, were treated with an ointment containing a substance known as phenindamine. Ninety per cent of them obtained relief from the itching, or the itching was completely overcome. Some of the best results occurred in the disorder known as pruritus ani, in which there is itching around the lower opening of the bowel.

Skin disorders, in which there were blisters or pustules present, were not treated; nor was the ointment used in those disorders in which there was infection with germs or open, raw surfaces.

Does Not Stain

The ointment is easily applied, does not stain, and can be washed off with plain water. In a few cases, the ointment aggravated the itching. This happened in one case of eczema and in two of excessive sweating. However, the itching caused by insect bites, sunburn, pruritus ani, and hives, and the itching of skin where no eruption was present, was generally relieved.

It is not expected that this substance will cure the underlying disorder. However, it relieves the itching and thus allows the rash to heal without the complications which may occur due to scratching and infection.

Try, Stop Me

Farmer Ekhamer owned a very tough ram, but discovered that music soothed its savage breast. Headed for town one day, Ekhamer reminded his son, "if that animal gets rambunctious just put a record on the phonograph." When he returned home he discovered that the ram had plunged against a stone wall and committed suicide. "Did you play music like I told you?" he demanded of the son. "I sure did," said the boy, "but the record I chose seemed to drive him crazy. It was Frank Sinatra singing, There'll Never Be Another Ewe."

Hint Communist Cell in Immigration Field Office

WASHINGTON—A scandal is about to break wide open in one of the biggest immigration and naturalization field offices in the nation. Insiders claim that when the break comes, testimony will show that a Communist cell operates within the office.

It is reported by those in the know that names of well-known American Communists will figure in the disclosure. An internationally-known Communist leader is also said to be hovering in the background of the case.

The story will be told by a former employe of the office, who says he is now ready to "spill the beans." Others connected with the office are said to be ready to back him up.

● AID TO TITO—The United States has decided that it might as well go all-out in giving assistance to Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, the canny Communist who had the nerve to revolt against the Kremlin.

Marshal Tito

Recognizing that Tito's regime may be endangered if his country's economy is allowed to crash, United States officials are planning to take these steps:

1—The United States will undertake to make up a part of the large food deficit in drought-stricken Yugoslavia, finding ways to supply grain, lard, beans and potatoes.

2—United States efforts will also be made to supply, perhaps through western European outlets, the indispensable raw materials formerly obtained in exchange for exports.

3—Outright cash loans will be made to Tito's government through the World Bank. Just how much money will be made available is not yet certain.

All-Out Aid for Tito From U. S. Seems Likely

4—The United States will urge western European nations to give credit to Yugoslavia against future food shipment. Such credit would be used to buy industrial equipment.

• • • •

● IKE IN THE LIMELIGHT—Many Washington politicos are willing to bet that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be the Republican candidate for President in 1952, despite his avowals that he is not seeking the nomination.

The experts say that Eisenhower's bandwagon started rolling with such momentum when pushed by Thomas E. Dewey's endorsement that it can't be stopped unless there are developments now entirely unforeseen.

Since both Dewey and Harold E. Stassen, another GOP presidential aspirant, have announced their support of Eisenhower, only Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio stands any chance of scuttling the draft-Ike drive.

It is extremely doubtful that Taft alone could stop the Eisenhower bandwagon if it is still rolling at convention time in 1952, and there appears to be no other GOP figure on the national scene who could mobilize sufficient strength to compete.

These factors all add up, in the eyes of a good many observers, to a virtual certainty that the president of Columbia university will get a crack at another, bigger presidency two years hence.

• • • •

● PRESIDENTIAL POWER—An idea of the vast power wielded by President Truman can be gained from the fact that from Jan. 1 through Sept. 23 of this year he made the staggering total of 25,699 civilian appointments.

President Hands Out 25,590 Jobs

These were probably not the only jobs he filled, but they were the ones of sufficient importance to require Senate confirmation.

Only four of the appointments were rejected by the Senate. Six of the nominations were withdrawn by the President, and 99 are still awaiting confirmation. A total of 25,590 were okayed.

The appointments reached into every state of the union and its territories. Of the total, 1,197 were postmasters. Others were judges, diplomats, United Nations delegates, public health officials, customs officials, United States marshals, civilian defense and atomic energy officials and heads of dozens of Washington agencies.

WANTED—$3,000,000

POSSESSED of a great narrative gift and a sure instinct for what the market wants, W. Somerset Maugham is one of the most popular living authors in English. His rewards, in prestige and cash, have been large. An expert craftsman, his opinions on the art of writing must be heard with respect.

At an author's luncheon in New York City, Mr. Maugham said: "You do precious little for literature in the United States." What he meant was that precious little is done for budding writers. He pointed out that there was a time when a publisher could afford to take a risk on a book that might sell 2,000 copies. Now publishers want to count on a sale of 10,000 copies, thus leaving a slim chance for young authors.

Mr. Maugham had a suggestion. Why not induce a Texas millionaire to give $3,000,000 as an endowment that would assure a living to young writers, send them abroad to travel in Europe, even house about a dozen of them under 30 in a chateau near Paris. Then let them write.

Such is the nature of talent, such is the problem of writing, that there could be no assurance that within a three-year period, for instance, literature would be produced. But said Mr. Maugham:

If, once in 10 years, it enables an author to produce a work which is an enrichment to our life, it will be well worth while and money well spent.

Life just now needs enrichment and understanding. But there are some Americans—isolationists, no doubt—who will be unable to understand why this manna must come from the atmosphere of Paris instead of the more salubrious climate of the United States.

LONGER HOURS

PROPOSAL by President Wilson of General Motors that the work week temporarily be extended to 45 hours to boost defense production and assure output of sufficient consumer goods to combat inflation is under attack by organized labor. Emil Mazey of the United Auto Workers says Wilson wants employees to put in five more hours of work without being paid time and a half for it.

However you slice the proposal, it still sums up to the fact that the United States is on a 40-hour week (in some cases less) while the workers of Russia and its satellites are on the job much longer hours. The U. S. has the advantage of volume production, but this could be overcome.

It is necessary to produce military weapons and keep the volume of consumer goods flowing so overabundant money will not continue to bid up the price of scarce goods. As of now, longer hours are clearly indicated.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Czarist Russia used the Orthodox church as an arm of government. It was a national church, at the head of which stood the czar. The church itself was not directed by its ecclesiastical authority but by a civilian official, the Procurator of the Holy Synod.

This developed into a vast propagandistic arm of the Russian government for the spread of pan-Slavism, the concept that the Slavic races have a special destiny and will ultimately rule the world.

Bolsheviks and other revolutionary groups hated the Orthodox church as they hate all religions of God, whatever their concept of the supernatural. In Lenin's time, the "Society of the Godless" was unremitting in its persecutions, but Stalin, who has studied to be a priest, recognized that the church could be useful to him.

The Orthodox church was revived as an organ of the state and was again developed as an agent of Red pan-Slavism in the countries where the population is predominantly Slavic.

Meanwhile, the Roman Catholic, Jewish and Moslem religions are being persecuted, not so much for their religious concepts as for their international relationships, which the Stalinists call "cosmopolitanism," that is, an association with non-Communists.

For instance, the arrest of Cardinal Mindszenty in Hungary was a political act, designed not only to break the back of the Roman Catholic church in Hungary but to crush the relationship to Rome. In each of their countries, the Russians are developing, with great success, a national catholic church; that is, a catholic church which follows the rites and rituals of Roman Catholicism but has no affiliation with Rome.

These are not Protestant or Schismatic churches; they are branches torn from the tree by the strong arm of the state. Such churches are subordinated to the government.

By outlawing Zionism and rejecting Hebrew as a language, by discouraging the existence of synagogues and Yeshivas, Judaism is being strangled in Communist countries. Judaism does not lend itself to a controllable national church. It is a religion of the individual, communally associated but not dominated. The Jews have no religious hierarchy. The rabbi is a teacher, not a priest. Anyone can perform religious services, and some of the most emotionally satisfying are in the home rather than in the synagogue, as for instance, the Passover service.

Therefore the Jewish synagogue is of no value as an instrument of power and is persecuted. Even Ana Pauker of Rumania, herself a Jewess, whose father is reported to be in Israel, is a persecutor of the Jews.

LOOK OUT for LIZA

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

THE ENORMOUS, comfortable living room opened from the terrace, and as Kathy and Liza entered, Fleming was saying, with some heat:

"I am not arguing that Meren is estimable. He's not. And I am not taking his brilliance into consideration. I'm just remarking that he has had real provocation—"

"You're too tolerant," said Hiram, "even for a doctor.

"If this is gossip," commented Kathy, "something in which males, of course, never indulge, do let us in on it. Paul, give Liza a cocktail. Or would you rather have something else?"

"Sherry, if you have it," said Liza. "If not, tomato juice."

"Liza's abstemious insistence upon sherry is charming," said Fleming. "But it's far from a temperance drink."

"It all depends upon how much of it you do drink," said Liza and accepted a moderate glass.

Kathy said, "You can't get away with it, Bob. What's the argument about, Jennings Meren?"

"Is that the automobile man?" inquired Liza.

"The same. We weren't really arguing," Paul Goddard said.

"I play bridge with his wife," said Kathy. "Do you think you belong to an exclusive club, Paul? Everyone knows about that dreadful woman."

"She isn't dreadful," contradicted Fleming, "merely misguided."

"Men!" lamented Kathy, and Liza smiled.

Fleming shook his head. "You shock me," he said solemnly. "The intolerance of women toward women. Kathy, if you say you like Mrs. Meren, I shan't believe you."

"I don't like her. But in such a case it behooves wives to stand together."

"Calling all wives," murmured her husband, "and sometimes what you call 'em—"

Hiram Mason said finally, "Meren has made a fool of himself. One day he'll regret it."

Kathy said, "I dare say he does now. I am not being intolerant of Cora whatever-her-name-is, Paul. I don't know her. Even not knowing her, I'm sorry for her too. But the Merens were married over thirty years ago. They were poor, they worked hard; Alma Meren as hard as her husband. If one is to credit the stories, she believed in him when no one else did; she begged and borrowed for him. It is sad when you see a man turn from his wife to a much younger woman after years of marriage. I know it happens every day. Yet it remains sad—and frightening."

Paul said soothingly, "I am stuck with you, darling. No one else would have me."

Kathy said, "I was present upon a historic occasion, a big charity shindig—very social, very solid, also boring. I was with a group of women—bankers' wives mostly, Hiram, when Mrs. Meren came in, clad in dignity and a fur coat and, at practically the same moment, Cora arrived, also in a fur coat. It created a sensation. Mrs. Meren's was mink and Cora's was sable."

Hiram said, "The man has no decency. He positively flaunts her—"

"Lovely word 'flaunt,'" said Fleming. "But Meren would have married Cora years ago if his wife had consented to a divorce."

"All very well," argued Hiram. "I know a little about the situation and am willing to admit that for a long time Meren and his wife have been unhappy and that she makes a grave mistake in not permitting a divorce, as there are no children. However, if a man must make a fool of himself, why not in private?"

Liza, feeling sufficiently briefed, spoke for the first time.

"George used to say that there was much to be said for the so-called Victorian hypocrisies," she remarked. "He said it preserved certain illusions. It did not shout its sins, family discussions, and difficulties from the housetops but kept them within soundproof walls. And gave a man the opportunity to repent and return home to his carpet slippers and newspaper. Also, in those days, a wife was secure. She might not handle the money but she ran the home and brought up the children. She was rarely subjected to public humiliation. If she suffered, it was in private and her own concern. She had the name, the status, and if she was patient, Papa always came home and remained there."

Hiram said, "Well, there's something in that."

"Not for me," said Fleming, "for I have progressed with the times. George, too. I don't think he believed that, Liza. He was just having his usual good time promulgating a theory, however cockeyed, and then trying to prove it in argument."

"As a matter of fact," Liza said, "he did believe it, Robert. He said that, up to the turn of the century or a little later, an illicit affair had a certain amount of glamor. It meant Parma violets, hansom cabs, veils, and private dining rooms. It meant scented notes and secrecy. But nowadays, he said, practically no affair was secret and in ratio to the publicity it received it lost its charm."

Everyone laughed but, looking up, Liza saw Hiram Mason regarding her with speculation. Oh dear, she thought, I forgot he was here. Not that he'd know a Parma violet from a bank statement. Still she was vaguely aware that she had received a warning and before many hours had, most pleasantly, elapsed he had taken her off to see the terrace by moonlight and inquired what evening next week they could dine.

On Sunday afternoon Fleming, Paul and Liza were on the terrace. The air was warm and delicious. And Hiram, who believed in outdoor exercise, had persuaded Kathy to take him walking. Liza was lying in a long chair, drowsily listening to the birds busy about the housing situation, to the leaves applauding, and to Fleming and Paul talking.

"You haven't been near me," said Fleming.

"Don't need to, I feel fine, since I took your advice."

"So you said last night. But I didn't tell you to get so involved again. I merely suggested you find an interest and work at it, but not too hard."

"I am working and not hard enough to hurt."

Fleming looked down at Liza. He said, "Remember my telling you about Paul—which was how I discovered you knew him and Kathy?"

"Of course."

"Pity I didn't give him up when I decided to specialize," said Fleming; "he's an unsatisfactory patient. But I would cling to a few of the old ones. Sentiment, no doubt. I advised him to retire, which was wise at the time. When he grew restless, I told him to unretire, but only to a degree."

"I'm not killing myself," Paul remonstrated. His lean, lined face was alive with humor and the wind ruffled his scant gray hair. "But there's nothing like a little gamble to make a man come alive. The trouble with my own interests was that there was no gamble left in 'em."

Fleming shrugged. "Well, if Associated Products was a gamble, Paul, I dare say the odds were on your side."

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Not everyone was pleased with the results of the elections, but this is one purchase we can't try on for size and return for credit.

We know 16 party leaders who aren't quite sure now whether they had the right candidates in the wrong year or the wrong candidates in the right year.

But they've got two years in which to make up another losing slate.

Anyway, all we expect of our newly-elected officials is they will forgive and forget as quickly as possible—forgive their enemies and forget their promises.

One fellow who promised more schools won by 1 votes and changed his mind. He said: "If the people get any smarter, I'm through."

Now if you're quite finished with tabulating the election returns you might get on to working up your tax return.

Nothing that happened in this election improved our individual position with the Treasury Department.

Stubborn Symptom to Cure

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ITCHING or pruritus, as it is known technically, forms the chief discomfort in a great variety of disorders. There is no more stubborn symptom in the whole list than itching, and none so likely to annoy the patient to the point of infuriation.

It is one of the worst features of eczema, which so often affects babies and young children, prominent in skin inflammations due to contact with irritating substances, such as poison ivy, and a well-known aftermath of insect bites. Itching may follow sunburn. It is severe in urticaria or hives. Then there is the skin condition known as psoriasis in which patches covered with gray scales form on the skin, particularly over the elbows and knees, and cause at times marked itching.

Itching Disorder

Of course, in every case of an itching disorder, an attempt must be made to find the cause of the disturbance so that it may be eliminated. When this is not possible, and even while such efforts are being carried out, the use of applications of one type or another to relieve the itching is required.

Recently, a large number of patients, more than 140, who had various types of itching disturbances, were treated with an ointment containing a substance known as phenindamine. Ninety per cent of them obtained relief from the itching, or the itching was completely overcome. Some of the best results occurred in the disorder known as pruritus ani, in which there is itching around the lower opening of the bowel.

Skin disorders, in which there were blisters or pustules present, were not treated; nor was the ointment used in those disorders in which there was infection with germs or open, raw surfaces.

Does Not Stain

The ointment is easily applied, does not stain, and can be washed off with plain water. In a few cases, the ointment aggravated the itching. This happened in one case of eczema and in two of excessive sweating. However, the itching caused by insect bites, sunburn, pruritus ani, and hives, and the itching of skin where no eruption was present, was generally relieved.

It is not expected that this substance will cure the underlying disorder. However, it relieves the itching and thus allows the rash to heal without the complications which may occur due to scratching and infection.

Headed for town one day, Ekhamer reminded his son, "if that animal gets rambunctious just put a record on the phonograph." When he returned home he discovered that the ram had plunged against a stone wall and committed suicide. "Did you play music like I told you?" he demanded of the son. "I sure did," said the boy, "but the record I chose seemed to drive him crazy. It was Frank Sinatra singing, 'There'll Never Be Another Ewe.'"

Hint Communist Cell in Immigration Field Office

WASHINGTON—A scandal is about to break wide open in one of the biggest immigration and naturalization field offices in the nation. Insiders claim that when the break comes, testimony will show that a Communist cell operates within the office.

It is reported by those in the know that names of well-known American Communists will figure in the disclosure. An internationally-known Communist leader is also said to be hovering in the background of the case.

Marshal Tito

The story will be told by a former employe of the office, who says he is now ready to "spill the beans." Others connected with the office are said to be ready to back him up.

* * * *

● AID TO TITO—The United States has decided that it might as well go all-out in giving assistance to Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, the canny Communist who had the nerve to revolt against the Kremlin.

Recognizing that Tito's regime may be endangered if his country's economy is allowed to crash, United States officials are planning to take these steps:

1—The United States will undertake to make up a part of the large food deficit in drought-stricken Yugoslavia, finding ways to supply grain, lard, beans and potatoes.

2—United States efforts will also be made to supply, perhaps through western European outlets, the indispensable raw materials formerly obtained in exchange for exports.

3—Outright cash loans will be made to Tito's government through the World Bank. Just how much money will be made available is not yet certain.

4—The United States will urge western European nations to give credit to Yugoslavia against future food shipment. Such credit would be used to buy industrial equipment.

All-Out Aid for Tito From U. S. Seems Likely

● IKE IN THE LIMELIGHT—Many Washington politicos are willing to bet that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be the Republican candidate for President in 1952, despite his avowals that he is not seeking the nomination.

The experts say that Eisenhower's bandwagon started rolling with such momentum when pushed by Thomas E. Dewey's endorsement that it can't be stopped unless there are developments now entirely unforeseen.

Since both Dewey and Harold E. Stassen, another GOP presidential aspirant, have announced their support of Eisenhower, only Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio stands any chance of scuttling the draft-Ike drive.

It is extremely doubtful that Taft alone could stop the Eisenhower bandwagon if it is still rolling at convention time in 1952, and there appears to be no other GOP figure on the national scene who could mobilize sufficient strength to compete.

These factors all add up, in the eyes of a good many observers, to a virtual certainty that the president of Columbia university will get a crack at another, bigger presidency two years hence.

President Hands Out 25,590 Jobs

● PRESIDENTIAL POWER—An idea of the vast power wielded by President Truman can be gained from the fact that from Jan. 1 through Sept. 23 of this year he made the staggering total of 25,699 civilian appointments.

These were probably not the only jobs he filled, but they were the ones of sufficient importance to require Senate confirmation.

Only four of the appointments were rejected by the Senate. Six of the nominations were withdrawn by the President, and 99 are still awaiting confirmation. A total of 25,590 were okayed.

The appointments reached into every state of the union and its territories. Of the total, 1,197 were postmasters. Others were judges, diplomats, United Nations delegates, public health officials, customs officials, United States marshals, civilian defense and atomic energy officials and heads of dozens of Washington agencies.

Circles Of Methodist Women's Society Hold Meetings Wednesday

Community Day Theme Noted

Circle meetings of Women's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist church were held in various homes Wednesday.

Mrs. George Welker of South Court street entertained in the afternoon. Mrs. I. W. Kinsey of Montclair and Guilford roads was hostess at a covered dish dinner at 7 p. m. Other meetings were held in the evening.

World Community Day was the subject of the study with emphasis on the theme, "Love Thy Neighbor." There were variations in the programs in the different Circles however.

Twenty members and guests were present when Mrs. Welker entertained Circle 1 in her home with Mrs. Alfred Lee and Miss Reba Lee assisting. At the business session conducted by Mrs. H. D. Stansbury, announcement was made of the reception for the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Weaver and family on Nov. 17.

Mrs. Walter Heine was hostess to Circle 2 in the newly-decorated recreation room in the Heine barn. Sixteen members were present. Guests included Mrs. Ray Carroll, Mrs. John Bowers, Mrs. Edgar Anderson and Mrs. M. L. Harper.

Assisting Mrs. Heine during the refreshment hour were Mrs. George Riggin and Mrs. Gus Graf.

At the Circle 3 meeting held in the home of Mrs. George H. Adkins a musical program was the evening high light. An orchestra of eighth grade girls, known as the "Music Box," presented religious and patriotic selections. Girls making up the orchestra were Sally Cochran, Elizabeth Musser, Dianne Mason, Mary Ann McClure, Margie Magill and Joyce Troutman. Their program included "Whispering Hope," "There's Music in the Air," "Onward Christian Soldiers," "America" and 'God Be With You."

Mrs. John Magill gave the story of Thanksgiving followed by a reading "Pioneers" by Mrs. George Van Camp.

Concluding number was an informal talk by Mrs. Roscoe Warren who told of the work of her brother-in-law, a missionary in Tibet.

Assisting Mrs. Adkins were Mrs. James Scott and Mrs. A. V. Osborne who served refreshments in keeping with the Thanksgiving season.

A covered dish dinner in the home of Mrs. Kinsey was held by Circle 5. Dinner was served cafeteria style in the Kinsey kitchen. Guests were seated at one large and several small tables.

Mrs. Roliff Wolford was in charge of the roundtable discussion which centered around the general theme of World Community Day.

Of the 23 persons present, four were guests. They were the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Weaver, Mrs. Emmett Barnhart and Mrs. Walden Reichelderfer.

Circle 6 was entertained by Mrs. Orion King in the evening. Twenty-one members were present for the discussion which made up the program. Mrs. George Schaub conducted the panel.

Assisting Mrs. King were Mrs. Howard Smith, Mrs. George Haswell, Mrs. Bryce Briggs, Mrs. Forrest Brown and Miss Benadine Yates.

Mrs. Edwin Bach was scheduled to be hostess to Group 4 in her home Thursday afternoon. Assisting her will be Mrs. Warren Harmon and Mrs. Earl Hilyard.

DUV's Annual Dinner Booked For December

When Daughters of Union Veterans met in Memorial Hall Tuesday evening, plans were made for the group's annual dinner to be held in December.

Mrs. E. L. Tolbert, president, gave an Armistice Day talk and ended her talk by reading the following prayer for peace:

"O God, our refuge and our strength, we beseech Thee to protect and guide our nation. Grant us true repentance and take away offenses of our nation that with clean hands and pure hearts we may go forward in Thy Name.

"Save us from hatred, cruelty and malice. Endow our leaders with courage and wisdom. Strengthen our defenders by land and by sea and by air. Suffer no dishonor to stain our arms. Safeguard and multiply the ministries of mercy. Succour the wounded, receive the dying, comfort the bereaved, bless those who labor in field and factory in office and home for our country's welfare.

"Make a speedy end of tyrannies of the earth. Deliver the desolate and oppressed of all nations. Hasten the advent of a righteous peace. And with Thy great might establish Thy kingdom."

Westminster Orchestra Sets Nov. 19 Concert

Westminster Orchestra, the young people's music organization of Circleville Presbyterian church, will present a concert of Johann Sebastian Bach's music in the church Nov. 19 at 8 p. m.

The concert, under the direction of Mrs. Kermit Dountz, will mark the Bach bi-centennial, which is being celebrated this year.

As a special feature of the concert, Mrs. Ray Davis will give a commentary on the life of Bach, father of polyphonic music and still considered its greatest exponent. Bach's compositions include cantatas, concertos, chorales, large choral works, preludes and fugues.

Westminster orchestra will present selections for strings, for strings and oboe. There will be numbers for full orchestra with pipe organ and two pianos, eight hands. Both piano and organ solos will be included in the program.

Mary Pickford Reinstated Among Beautiful Women

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 — Mary Pickford was reinstated in the Glamour Hall of Fame today when she was named alongside such youngsters as Liz Taylor and Ava Gardner to the list of "Ten Most Beautiful Women in America."

The 1950 selections by the Artists' Group of America were made on the premise that "to an artist, a beautiful woman is one whose superlative physical attributes immediately excite the creative instincts."

Miss Pickford won because the artists' group said she is the "everybody's favorite aunt" type. She has "youthful maturity and vivacity, and an eye-catching neckline."

Others named by Russell Patterson, head of the group, included:

Athlete-Actress Esther Williams; Socialite Mrs. Harrison Williams; Actresses Ginger Rogers and Colleen Townsend; Singer Margaret Phelan; and Hostesses Mrs. William (Sloan Simpson) O'Dwyer and Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt.

Elizabeth Taylor, whose name appeared first on the list, was chosen by the committee "because she has the face and grace of an angel. Her eyes and nose are masterpieces of nature."

Despite Ava Gardner's sometimes sinister roles as the other woman, she was called beautiful for "shy and retiring facial characteristics and temptingly curved bosom and hip lines."

It was "strength and determination" that won a listing for Esther Williams. She was labeled "the girl next door" type.

Mrs. Harrison Williams was named for her "regal splendor, sophisticated poise, magnificent cheekbones and faultless posture." Sloan O'Dwyer won a listing for "soul-searching tenderness and a striking, intelligent forehead."

The artists' group agreed that Ginger Rogers is "the most beautful blonde in America," that she is also the "happy-go-lucky" type.

Miss Townsend, Miss Phelan and Mrs. Vanderbilt all took prizes in pulchritude for their respective brands of sweetness.

Miss Townsend was "delicate and fragile, cuddly and cute," Miss Phelan, "tantalizingly sweet," and Mrs. Vanderbilt, "sweetly dignified, charming and understanding."

Mrs. Vanderbilt also has "shapely ears," the committee declared.

Patterson, in announcing the list, pointed out that beauty cannot be measured with slide rules.

"A face which lacks character is ugly," he said, "no matter how mathematically perfect are the proportions of its component parts."

Community Day Theme Noted

Circle meetings of Women's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist church were held in various homes Wednesday.

Mrs. George Welker of South Court street entertained in the afternoon. Mrs. I. W. Kinsey of Montclair and Guilford roads was hostess at a covered dish dinner at 7 p. m. Other meetings were held in the evening.

World Community Day was the subject of the study with emphasis on the theme, "Love Thy Neighbor." There were variations in the programs in the different Circles however.

Twenty members and guests were present when Mrs. Welker entertained Circle 1 in her home with Mrs. Alfred Lee and Miss Reba Lee assisting. At the business session conducted by Mrs. H. D. Stansbury, announcement was made of the reception for the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Weaver and family on Nov. 17.

Mrs. Walter Heine was hostess to Circle 2 in the newly-decorated recreation room in the Heine barn. Sixteen members were present. Guests included Mrs. Ray Carroll, Mrs. John Bowers, Mrs. Edgar Anderson and Mrs. M. L. Harper.

Assisting Mrs. Heine during the refreshment hour were Mrs. George Riggin and Mrs. Gus Graf.

At the Circle 3 meeting held in the home of Mrs. George H. Adkins a musical program was the evening high light. An orchestra of eighth grade girls, known as the "Music Box," presented religious and patriotic selections. Girls making up the orchestra were Sally Cochran, Elizabeth Musser, Dianne Mason, Mary Ann McClure, Margie Magill and Joyce Troutman. Their program included "Whispering Hope," "There's Music in the Air," "Onward Christian Soldiers," "America" and 'God Be With You."

Mrs. John Magill gave the story of Thanksgiving followed by a reading "Pioneers" by Mrs. George Van Camp.

Concluding number was an informal talk by Mrs. Roscoe Warren who told of the work of her brother-in-law, a missionary in Tibet.

Assisting Mrs. Adkins were Mrs. James Scott and Mrs. A. V. Osborne who served refreshments in keeping with the Thanksgiving season.

A covered dish dinner in the home of Mrs. Kinsey was held by Circle 5. Dinner was served cafeteria style in the Kinsey kitchen. Guests were seated at one large and several small tables.

Mrs. Roliff Wolford was in charge of the roundtable discussion which centered around the general theme of World Community Day.

Of the 23 persons present, four were guests. They were the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Weaver, Mrs. Emmett Barnhart and Mrs. Walden Reichelderfer.

Circle 6 was entertained by Mrs. Orion King in the evening. Twenty-one members were present for the discussion which made up the program. Mrs. George Schaub conducted the panel.

Assisting Mrs. King were Mrs. Howard Smith, Mrs. George Haswell, Mrs. Bryce Briggs, Mrs. Forrest Brown and Miss Benadine Yates.

Mrs. Edwin Bach was scheduled to be hostess to Group 4 in her home Thursday afternoon. Assisting her will be Mrs. Warren Harmon and Mrs. Earl Hilyard.

DUV's Annual Dinner Booked For December

When Daughters of Union Veterans met in Memorial Hall Tuesday evening, plans were made for the group's annual dinner to be held in December.

Mrs. E. L. Tolbert, president, gave an Armistice Day talk and ended her talk by reading the following prayer for peace:

"O God, our refuge and our strength, we beseech Thee to protect and guide our nation. Grant us true repentance and take away offenses of our nation that with clean hands and pure hearts we may go forward in Thy Name.

"Save us from hatred, cruelty and malice. Endow our leaders with courage and wisdom. Strengthen our defenders by land and by sea and by air. Suffer no dishonor to stain our arms. Safeguard and multiply the ministries of mercy. Succour the wounded, receive the dying, comfort the bereaved, bless those who labor in field and factory in office and home for our country's welfare.

"Make a speedy end of tyrannies of the earth. Deliver the desolate and oppressed of all nations. Hasten the advent of a righteous peace. And with Thy great might establish Thy kingdom."

CASE LOAD DROPS SHARPLY

Cost Of October Relief Higher Than September's

Poor relief cost Pickaway Countians $3,790.88 in October, $284.09 more than the $3,506.74 September cost.

The increase in cost, despite a case load drop from September's 107 to October's 75, was explained by Relief Director Pauline Roese as being due to a larger number of reliefers requiring hospital care.

Administrative costs of the county's relief program last month totalled $326.49, compared to $320.73 for the month before last.

Actual relief payments in October totalled $3,464.39. In September the total was $2,638.01. Breakdown of the figures, with October totals first, then September, is as follows:

COUNTY CASES, $1,881.60, $1,760.10; city cases, $1,582.79, $877.91; care, $549.60, $595.60; hospital, $1,408.16, $381.60; medical, $169.75, $404.72; rent, $216, $279; clothing, $1.78, $3.56; fuel $112.25 16.63; food, $935.15, $901.90; work, $71.70, $55.

Breakdown of the case loads of the two months, with October first, then September, is as follows:

Direct relief to family cases, 25 families consisting of 117 persons, 50 families consisting of 179 persons, costing $806.63 and $1,289.69; direct relief to single persons, 39 costing $1,014.55, 41 costing $1,055.

Work relief for family cases, one family of five persons costing $65.30, one family of five persons costing $55; medical and hospital care only, 10 costing $172.75, 12 costing $381.60; medical and hospital care together with other forms of relief, 10 costing $1,405.16, 12 costing $381.60.

In September the relief office also paid out $548 as supplementation to the Aid to Dependent Children program. Such supplementation has been discontinued.

Miss Roese said that in October the relief office added nine home care cases and eight cases of medical and hospital care only, a total of 17.

She added that 49 cases were dropped during the month, of which 28 were ADC cases.

Idle Pay Claims On Increase

24 New Cases Noted In County

New claims for unemployment compensation in Pickaway County continued to increase last week.

According to a report from the state Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, 24 new claims were filed last week, compared to 19 for the week before, 12 the week before that and nine for the week ending Oct. 14.

The November average of continued claims filed in November, 1949, was 212.

Throughout that state a total of 5,179 new claims were filed last week, a jump over the 4,792 filed the week before.

Despite this, Ohio's need for skilled workers continues to increase, according to C. C. Thomas, local BUC manager.

Thomas cautioned workers against chasing rumors of defense jobs outside of their communities. He said that key Ohio workers desiring information about defense jobs and other job opportunities can obtain full information from any of the Bureau's 82 local employment centers.

The 82 Employment Centers of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation are urgently seeking more than 2,000 qualified persons, he declared.

100,000 Due To Attend Food Show, Display

CLEVELAND, Nov. 9 — Gadget-happy Americans and frantic gourmets who are long on appetite but short of time will have themselves a field day in Cleveland this week.

More than 100,000 persons are expected to visit the 62nd annual Cleveland Food and Home Show to see what American food producers and home appliance manufacturers in 26 states have dreamed up for them.

Especially processed and packaged foods, aimed at a market dominated by those who love to eat but never have enough time for their favorite dishes, will highlight the show, which opens today and runs through Nov. 17.

Appliances designed to give housewives an edge in their daily battle to meet domestic schedules are also expected to be a major drawing feature of the exhibit.

When in 1836 James G. Birney published in Cincinnati one of the first abolitionist newspapers, The Philanthropist, his presses were thrown in the river and he had to flee from arrest.

The Cincinnati Union Terminal was completed in 1933 at a cost of $43 billion.

'Honey Bear' Winning Fight Against Polio

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 9—Nina Warren, 17-year-old daughter of California's governor, was reported rallying today from a severe attack of infantile paralysis.

The golden-haired girl, known as "Honey Bear," youngest of Gov. Warren's three pretty daughters, was stricken on Election Day as her father was swept into office for a third term.

Four specialists announced late yesterday they were pleased with her condition although she has suffered partial paralysis from the hips down.

"Nina's temperature dropped in a heartening manner," they said "and we are pleased.

"There has been no extension of trouble and she is radiating her usual happy disposition."

Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Imler were Mr. and Mrs. Clark Aldenderfer of Circleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Benton Fausnaugh.

TRAINMEN WORK JACKS to lift the front of the car after Arnold Coffey, 42, an unemployed laborer of Sackets Harbor, N. Brannan Said Still Holding On To His Plan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—Sources close to Agriculture Secretary Brannan say that he has no intention of dropping the Brannan Farm Plan in the face of congressional election results.

Brannan is said to believe that the Brannan Plan actually was not brought to a test before farmers and therefore sees no reason to change his mind about it.

Congressional candidates using the Brannan Plan as a campaign plank were defeated in Tuesday's election, including Former Agriculture Undersecretary Albert Loveland of Iowa. Few candidates openly espoused the plan, many opposed it.

Advocates of the secretary's program hold there still is no conclusive proof that farmers are against it. They even said that if more congressional candidates had used the Brannan Plan as a campaign plank, some who were defeated may have won.

BUT THE DEFEAT of Loveland, who worked closely with Brannan in development of the administration's farm proposals, does constitute a blow to any aggressive action by the administration in the next Congress.

Loveland was considered the "white hope" to lead the congressional fight for adoption of the plan. His defeat robs the administration of an avowed Brannan Plan spokesman in the next Congress.

REDUCING WITH RENNEL

Mrs. Edna Palarie, Box 92, East Palestine, Ohio writes: "Rennel has made me a new woman. I have lost 41 pounds. Wonderful, isn't it? To me Rennel is the fat person's fountain of youth."

Thousands of others have overcome the social and physical discomfort of being overweight with this effective home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. No diets to complicate your meal planning. No expensive vitamins to fortify your system from weakness while going without food for you can eat normally. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender, more youthful curves—if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Insist on and be sure to get genuine Rennel.

CASE LOAD DROPS SHARPLY

Cost Of October Relief Higher Than September's

Poor relief cost Pickaway Countians $3,790.88 in October, $284.09 more than the $3,506.74 September cost.

The increase in cost, despite a case load drop from September's 107 to October's 75, was explained by Relief Director Pauline Roese as being due to a larger number of reliefers requiring hospital care.

Administrative costs of the county's relief program last month totalled $326.49, compared to $320.73 for the month before last.

Actual relief payments in October totalled $3,464.39. In September the total was $2,638.01. Breakdown of the figures, with October totals first, then September, is as follows:

COUNTY CASES, $1,881.60, $1,760.10; city cases, $1,582.79, $877.91; care, $549.60, $595.60; hospital, $1,408.16, $381.60; medical, $169.75, $404.72; rent, $216, $279; clothing, $1.78, $3.56; fuel $112.25 16.63; food, $935.15, $901.90; work, $71.70, $55.

Breakdown of the case loads of the two months, with October first, then September, is as follows:

Direct relief to family cases, 25 families consisting of 117 persons, 50 families consisting of 179 persons, costing $806.63 and $1,289.69; direct relief to single persons, 39 costing $1,014.55, 41 costing $1,055.

Work relief for family cases, one family of five persons costing $65.30, one family of five persons costing $55; medical and hospital care only, 10 costing $172.75, 12 costing $381.60; medical and hospital care together with other forms of relief, 10 costing $1,405.16, 12 costing $381.60.

In September the relief office also paid out $548 as supplementation to the Aid to Dependent Children program. Such supplementation has been discontinued.

Miss Roese said that in October the relief office added nine home care cases and eight cases of medical and hospital care only, a total of 17.

She added that 49 cases were dropped during the month, of which 28 were ADC cases.

Idle Pay Claims On Increase

24 New Cases Noted In County

New claims for unemployment compensation in Pickaway County continued to increase last week.

According to a report from the state Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, 24 new claims were filed last week, compared to 19 for the week before, 12 the week before that and nine for the week ending Oct. 14.

The November average of continued claims filed in November, 1949, was 212.

Throughout that state a total of 5,179 new claims were filed last week, a jump over the 4,792 filed the week before.

Despite this, Ohio's need for skilled workers continues to increase, according to C. C. Thomas, local BUC manager.

Thomas cautioned workers against chasing rumors of defense jobs outside of their communities. He said that key Ohio workers desiring information about defense jobs and other job opportunities can obtain full information from any of the Bureau's 82 local employment centers.

The 82 Employment Centers of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation are urgently seeking more than 2,000 qualified persons, he declared.

'Honey Bear' Winning Fight Against Polio

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 9—Nina Warren, 17-year-old daughter of California's governor, was reported rallying today from a severe attack of infantile paralysis.

The golden-haired girl, known as "Honey Bear," youngest of Gov. Warren's three pretty daughters, was stricken on Election Day as her father was swept into office for a third term.

Four specialists announced late yesterday they were pleased with her condition although she has suffered partial paralysis from the hips down.

"Nina's temperature dropped in a heartening manner," they said "and we are pleased.

"There has been no extension of trouble and she is radiating her usual happy disposition."

100,000 Due To Attend Food Show, Display

CLEVELAND, Nov. 9 — Gadget-happy Americans and frantic gourmets who are long on appetite but short of time will have themselves a field day in Cleveland this week.

More than 100,000 persons are expected to visit the 62nd annual Cleveland Food and Home Show to see what American food producers and home appliance manufacturers in 26 states have dreamed up for them.

Especially processed and packaged foods, aimed at a market dominated by those who love to eat but never have enough time for their favorite dishes, will highlight the show, which opens today and runs through Nov. 17.

Appliances designed to give housewives an edge in their daily battle to meet domestic schedules are also expected to be a major drawing feature of the exhibit.

When in 1836 James G. Birney published in Cincinnati one of the first abolitionist newspapers, The Philanthropist, his presses were thrown in the river and he had to flee from arrest.

The Cincinnati Union Terminal was completed in 1933 at a cost of $43 billion.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreicher
INS Foreign Director

A definite new attempt to localize the Korean war, now aggravated by admitted Chinese Communist participation, shaped up today in the wake of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's disclosure that United Nations forces are in "hostile contact" with Manchurian Reds at the Yalu river.

There are no indications at the moment that the United States or other Western Powers are disposed to push the issue.

On the contrary, the British government has made known its desire to maintain diplomatic relations with the Communist regime in Peiping and to improve them if possible.

And at the same time, negotiations are reported in progress for the protection of electric power resources on the Yalu river at the Korean-Manchurian frontier.

If these actually are underway and reach fruition, they presumably would immobilize MacArthur's air force and ground troops so far as action north of the border is concerned.

The situation presenting itself at the moment is curious in some respects and unique in others.

United Nations troops from a dozen different countries have arrived in Korea or are enroute to implement the formal decision to knock out Communist oppression in the peninsula by force of arms.

THEY HAVE GONE forward fully equipped. There will be no need to drain off locally available resources to arm them.

Yet in the face of this, Communist China has opened a new gambit which earned its leaders the praise of Soviet Army Commander - in - Chief Nikolai Bulganin in the annual "State of the Soviet Union" message to the Russian people in Moscow.

The situation has become all the more confused by the fact that within a few hours after the MacArthur report brought about a special meeting of the Security Council, the Chinese Communists began a front-wide retreat.

Whether this meant the original intervention was begun in error and made subject to later consideration by the Kremlin Politburo is of course problematical.

But in the ebb and flow of momentous events there were inescapable signs that the military situation is not being allowed to deteriorate at the border; that the great forces of the Eastern and Western worlds massed for desperate conflict may yet be called off before irreparable damage is done.

The mandate given to MacArthur in its resolution adopted in June after the North Korean aggression is clear and unmistakable.

He has been committed, as UN commander, to clear all Korea of Communists. Obviously this means Chinese Communists as well as North Korean ones, and there is no intimation in any of his orders and directives to plunge across frontiers into Siberia or Manchuria.

Whether present UN military operations go well or badly, MacArthur now is heavily fortified by the contributions that are being made by Allied nations.

British, Canadian, Australian, New Zealand, Turkish, Siamese, Dutch and Greek troops now are actively under his command or on their way to the Far East.

Each unit is described as the best the individual country could produce on short notice.

THEY ALSO HAVE the intellectual and moral backing of the Democratic world, a not inconsequential factor in the light of staving off the Russians from some outright contribution to the Korean war which in the final analysis could mean only a global catastrophe.

The United Nations has as one of its main tenets the theory that wars can be localized if not legalized and it is obvious that an intention toward this end is governing the thoughts and decisions of Lake Success.

MacArthur has emphasized the gravity of the present situation. He did not spare his command of the English language in stressing it. But he has not demanded immediate punitive action beyond his existing measures. It still is not impossible to foresee a solution far short of all-out worldwide war.

Margaret Makes First Recordings

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—Margaret's done the next best thing to putting it in writing—she's put it on wax.

President Truman's daughter made her first recordings in New York yesterday under her RCA-Victor contract. She plans to complete her resent recording date by the end of the week and then resume her nationwide tour.

The initial waxings for Miss Truman's first album included a group of early American songs. She was accompanied by an orchestra directed by Robert Shaw and by the Robert Shaw Chorale.

Court Refuses Denial Review

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — The Ohio supreme court today refused to review a denial of personal injury damages from the Dow Drug Co., as a result of injuries received Aug. 8, 1947, by Margaret Golden at the company's Clifton store.

Miss Golden claimed she was knocked to the sidewalk and seriously injured by an employe who threw open a side door. The courts, however, dismissed her suit.

Canned Milk Use Increases

Annual consumption of canned evaporated and condensed milk averages around 20½ pounds per person, a recent survey revealed.

The heat treatment given in sterilizing evaporated milk makes it more easily digested, and therefore, ideal baby food. This use, plus use in tea and coffee, accounts for a large portion of the evaporated milk sales in the United States, the survey concluded.

Farm Tools Top Steel Industry

Steel products for use in agriculture are listed by U. S. Steel as one of its eight major manufacturing categories.

Among the company's products, as pointed out in the annual 1949 report, are carbon and alloy bars, shapes, plates, sheet and strip, pike and tubing for agricultural machinery, grain bins, brooder houses, wire, gates, and formed roofing and siding sheet among others.

The population of Cleveland in 1800 was seven.

There are more than 5,000 churches and temples in Ohio.

Arizona Names GOP Governor

With only a few scattered precincts to be heard from Pyle led the first woman gubernatorial candidate in Arizona's history by more than 3,000 votes. Pyle said:

"I am glad to join with the bloc of new Republican governos in the Southwest."

Union Chief Feels Strike Effect Too

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—At 5:50 a. m. today Al Herrington picked up the telephone in his Hotel Governor Clinton suite in midtown Manhattan and called his wife in Washington.

Afterward he explained:

"Can't tell when I'll be able to get through to Washington again."

Herrington is national press representative for the CIO-Communications Workers of America which went on strike ten minutes after his phone call.

OSU Engineers Given Awards

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — Two Ohio State university students have received $1,000 fellowships from the Westinghouse Educational Foundation of East Pittsburgh, Pa., to continue their engineering work.

Named to get the awards were Maurice E. Breese and Gerald A. Francis, both of Columbus.

Breese, 28, is in electrical engineering and Francis, 26, in mechanical engineering.

Ohio possesses about one-sixteenth of the national wealth, or about $50 billion at current prices.

Judge's Estate Tops $1 Million

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — The members of the family of the late Edward C. Turner, supreme court judge, will share in his $1,876,000 estate.

According to his will filed in Franklin County probate court, the members of the family were named beneficiaries of the estate. The bulk of the property is real estate.

WHAT'S MORE IMPORTANT THAN MONEY

Before you make up your mind about arranging a cash loan, you'll want to know something about the business philosophy of the people you plan to see. We at Economy Loan believe there is something more important in arranging loans than just the money itself—and that is the spirit with which the loan is made. All money is the same and you can probably get a loan many places. We emphasize the other things—our EXTRAS—little things that mean a lot but cost not one cent more—such as: Friendly Attention, Personal Consideration, Understanding, Respect for Your Confidence, Better Service and a Sincere Desire to Make the Loan. You'll like this kind of service.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreicher
INS Foreign Director

A definite new attempt to localize the Korean war, now aggravated by admitted Chinese Communist participation, shaped up today in the wake of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's disclosure that United Nations forces are in "hostile contact" with Manchurian Reds at the Yalu river.

There are no indications at the moment that the United States or other Western Powers are disposed to push the issue.

On the contrary, the British government has made known its desire to maintain diplomatic relations with the Communist regime in Peiping and to improve them if possible.

And at the same time, negotiations are reported in progress for the protection of electric power resources on the Yalu river at the Korean-Manchurian frontier.

If these actually are underway and reach fruition, they presumably would immobilize MacArthur's air force and ground troops so far as action north of the border is concerned.

The situation presenting itself at the moment is curious in some respects and unique in others.

United Nations troops from a dozen different countries have arrived in Korea or are enroute to implement the formal decision to knock out Communist oppression in the peninsula by force of arms.

THEY HAVE GONE forward fully equipped. There will be no need to drain off locally available resources to arm them.

Yet in the face of this, Communist China has opened a new gambit which earned its leaders the praise of Soviet Army Commander - in - Chief Nikolai Bulganin in the annual "State of the Soviet Union" message to the Russian people in Moscow.

The situation has become all the more confused by the fact that within a few hours after the MacArthur report brought about a special meeting of the Security Council, the Chinese Communists began a front-wide retreat.

Whether this meant the original intervention was begun in error and made subject to later consideration by the Kremlin Politburo is of course problematical.

But in the ebb and flow of momentous events there were inescapable signs that the military situation is not being allowed to deteriorate at the border; that the great forces of the Eastern and Western worlds massed for desperate conflict may yet be called off before irreparable damage is done.

The mandate given to MacArthur in its resolution adopted in June after the North Korean aggression is clear and unmistakable.

He has been committed, as UN commander, to clear all Korea of Communists. Obviously this means Chinese Communists as well as North Korean ones, and there is no intimation in any of his orders and directives to plunge across frontiers into Siberia or Manchuria.

Whether present UN military operations go well or badly, MacArthur now is heavily fortified by the contributions that are being made by Allied nations.

British, Canadian, Australian, New Zealand, Turkish, Siamese, Dutch and Greek troops now are actively under his command or on their way to the Far East.

Each unit is described as the best the individual country could produce on short notice.

THEY ALSO HAVE the intellectual and moral backing of the Democratic world, a not inconsequential factor in the light of staving off the Russians from some outright contribution to the Korean war which in the final analysis could mean only a global catastrophe.

The United Nations has as one of its main tenets the theory that wars can be localized if not legalized and it is obvious that an intention toward this end is governing the thoughts and decisions of Lake Success.

MacArthur has emphasized the gravity of the present situation. He did not spare his command of the English language in stressing it. But he has not demanded immediate punitive action beyond his existing measures. It still is not impossible to foresee a solution far short of all-out worldwide war.

Margaret Makes First Recordings

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—Margaret's done the next best thing to putting it in writing—she's put it on wax.

President Truman's daughter made her first recordings in New York yesterday under her RCA-Victor contract. She plans to complete her resent recording date by the end of the week and then resume her nationwide tour.

The initial waxings for Miss Truman's first album included a group of early American songs. She was accompanied by an orchestra directed by Robert Shaw and by the Robert Shaw Chorale.

Court Refuses Denial Review

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — The Ohio supreme court today refused to review a denial of personal injury damages from the Dow Drug Co., as a result of injuries received Aug. 8, 1947, by Margaret Golden at the company's Clifton store.

Miss Golden claimed she was knocked to the sidewalk and seriously injured by an employe who threw open a side door. The courts, however, dismissed her suit.

Canned Milk Use Increases

Annual consumption of canned evaporated and condensed milk averages around 20½ pounds per person, a recent survey revealed.

The heat treatment given in sterilizing evaporated milk makes it more easily digested, and therefore, ideal baby food. This use, plus use in tea and coffee, accounts for a large portion of the evaporated milk sales in the United States, the survey concluded.

Farm Tools Top Steel Industry

Steel products for use in agriculture are listed by U. S. Steel as one of its eight major manufacturing categories.

Among the company's products, as pointed out in the annual 1949 report, are carbon and alloy bars, shapes, plates, sheet and strip, pike and tubing for agricultural machinery, grain bins, brooder houses, wire, gates, and formed roofing and siding sheet among others.

The population of Cleveland in 1800 was seven.

There are more than 5,000 churches and temples in Ohio.

Arizona Names GOP Governor

With only a few scattered precincts to be heard from Pyle led the first woman gubernatorial candidate in Arizona's history by more than 3,000 votes. Pyle said:

"I am glad to join with the bloc of new Republican governos in the Southwest."

Union Chief Feels Strike Effect Too

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—At 5:50 a. m. today Al Herrington picked up the telephone in his Hotel Governor Clinton suite in midtown Manhattan and called his wife in Washington.

Afterward he explained:

"Can't tell when I'll be able to get through to Washington again."

Herrington is national press representative for the CIO-Communications Workers of America which went on strike ten minutes after his phone call.

OSU Engineers Given Awards

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — Two Ohio State university students have received $1,000 fellowships from the Westinghouse Educational Foundation of East Pittsburgh, Pa., to continue their engineering work.

Named to get the awards were Maurice E. Breese and Gerald A. Francis, both of Columbus.

Breese, 28, is in electrical engineering and Francis, 26, in mechanical engineering.

Ohio possesses about one-sixteenth of the national wealth, or about $50 billion at current prices.

Judge's Estate Tops $1 Million

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — The members of the family of the late Edward C. Turner, supreme court judge, will share in his $1,876,000 estate.

According to his will filed in Franklin County probate court, the members of the family were named beneficiaries of the estate. The bulk of the property is real estate.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By SENATOR ROBERT A. TAFT

During the last 14 months I have been to every county in the state of Ohio and to nearly all of those counties twice. If anyone wants to get an idea of the immensity of this state and the attractive character of its people, he should certainly run for office, and particularly he should do so in the autumn when the leaves are turning.

No country could be more beautiful or impress upon one more, the fact that Ohio is a great agricultural state, its products valued at much more than a billion dollars a year, and the fifth in the nation.

I have made a special effort to reach every group of the population so that I might know their problems and their interests and be better able to represent them in Washington. Ohio is perhaps the state which presents the best cross section of the entire American community in its cities and farms, its industries and its wide variety of educational institutions.

Perhaps the greatest pleasure I have had is in visiting the numerous colleges and talking with the audiences of students. Their questions usually indicate a greater interest and often a greater knowledge than those of adult audiences.

THERE IS AN intense interest, particularly in foreign affairs, but also a great lack of knowledge.

The administration has pursued a policy of secrecy, and undertaken to deal with these affairs without giving the people any chance to decide what they really want. Their approach to the people has been solely one of propaganda, after the decision has been made by those in authority.

No one was really given a chance to discuss the Marshall Plan or the Atlantic Pact until these matters were decided upon, and all of the agencies of public opinion had been briefed for a publicity barrage.

Today we face a problem which certainly should be thoroughly aired before final action is taken. That is the question of our military preparation in connection with the defense of Western Europe. I don't believe anyone questions the wisdom of an air force sufficient to protect this country from Russian attack, and to deter Russia from beginning a war through our power to bomb the Russian cities and industrial plants.

BUT PUBLIC consideration has never been given to the problem of a defense of Western Europe.

How many American soldiers will be required and what will be the additional cost?

How much will it increase the necessity of drafting every American boy as he becomes 18 years of age for two years' service in the Army?

Can Western Europe really be defended?

If the Russians have atomic bombs with which they can bomb the cities of this country according to our military authorities, can they also bomb the debarkation ports in Europe and cut off our Armies in Europe from American supplies?

What will a Third World War look like?

How do we finally win it?

These are all problems on which apparently the government is now committing the United States in Europe without the slightest public discussion or consideration.

Public discussion is all the more necessary, because it is the families of America who are going to have to give up their boys and pay the huge additional taxes that are required.

Unquestionably some of this sacrifice is necessary to protect us against the real threat of Soviet aggression. But the facts ought to be clearly brought before the people, and they must be satisfied in their own minds that the sacrifice is essential. If they are convinced by fair arguments, they will make any sacrifice to assure the freedom of America.

He Is To Model Prison Clothes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—It is seldom that a man is sent to jail because he does a poor job, but Albert J. Demers of Thomaston, Conn., is such an incompetent clothes model that he is going to spend six months in the pokey.

Demers was accused in municipal court of stealing a suit from a parked car in New York and then bringing it here. His defense was that he bought the suit, despite laundry markings identified by the man who said he owned it.

Judge George D. Neilson solved the problem by ordering Demers to don the suit and then model it for the court. The suit ended half way up Demer's arms, and the pants were calf-length. Neilson said Demers could spend the next six months modeling prison costumes.

Sunday Movie Ban Is Lifted

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 9 — The ban on Sunday movies in Cambridge is off.

Residents of Cambridge voted in Tuesday's election to take the "lid" off and permit Sunday movies. For years, a city ordinance prohibited theatergoers from attending film showings on the Sabbath.

Apportionment Plan May Give GOP More Seats

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 — The Republicans appear headed today for further gains in the House under the new congressional apportionment plan reflecting the population shift from east to west.

The plan, based on the 1950 census, switches 14 House seats to California and six other states in the Far West, Midwest, and South.

California will get seven new representatives. The Golden State has a Republican governor and GOP legislature. Thus, the redistricting is certain to be carried out in a manner exploiting the party's strength in future elections.

The other states awarded new House seats in the apportionment plan turned over to President Truman earlier this month by Commerce Secretary Sawyer and Census Director Roy V. Peel are:

Florida, two; Maryland, one; Michigan, one; Texas, one; Virginia, one; Washington, one.

Republicans count on new strength in Michigan, which has a GOP governor-elect and a predominantly Republican state legislature.

Washington and Maryland also will be under GOP governors when the plan becomes effective.

Florida, Texas, and Virginia are under Democrat control.

THE PROBABLE reapportionment outcome therefore would be: Republicans, 10 new congressmen; Democrats, four.

The states slated to lose House seats under the reapportionment program are Arkansas, one; Illinois one; Kentucky, one; Mississippi, one; Missouri, two; New York, two; Oklahoma, six; Pennsylvania, three; Tennessee, one.

The GOP is in power in Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania, the Democrats in Arkansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Oklahoma, and Tennessee.

Livestock Sale Volume, Prices Edge Upward

Volume of livestock sales continued to increase this week, according to Pickaway County Livestock Association.

A small increase in prices was reported by the association for cattle, calves and sheep. Hog prices were down a little.

A Wednesday sale of 1,426 animals, an increase of 351 over the 1,075 head sold last week, was reported.

Cattle receipts climbed from last week's 353 head sold to this week's sale of 327, while hog prices hopped from 350 head sold last week to 600 marketed Wednesday.

Calf sales were up four head this week, from 96 auctioned last week to 100 sold Wednesday. There was also a climb in the sales volume of sheep and lambs, from last week's 376 to 399 sold Wednesday.

CATTLE RECEIPTS — 327 Head — Steers and heifers, good 30-32.50; steers and heifers, medium to good 27.50-30; steers and heifers, common to medium 17-27.50; cows, comon to good 18-23; cows, canners to common 10-18; bulls 23-26.50.

I don't believe anyone questions the wisdom of an air force sufficient to protect this country from Russian attack, and to deter Russia from beginning a war through our power to bomb the Russian cities and industrial plants.

BUT PUBLIC consideration has never been given to the problem of a defense of Western Europe.

How many American soldiers will be required and what will be the additional cost?

How much will it increase the necessity of drafting every American boy as he becomes 18 years of age for two years' service in the Army?

Can Western Europe really be defended?

If the Russians have atomic bombs with which they can bomb the cities of this country according to our military authorities, can they also bomb the debarkation ports in Europe and cut off our Armies in Europe from American supplies?

What will a Third World War look like?

How do we finally win it?

These are all problems on which apparently the government is now committing the United States in Europe without the slightest public discussion or consideration.

Public discussion is all the more necessary, because it is the families of America who are going to have to give up their boys and pay the huge additional taxes that are required.

Unquestionably some of this sacrifice is necessary to protect us against the real threat of Soviet aggression. But the facts ought to be clearly brought before the people, and they must be satisfied in their own minds that the sacrifice is essential. If they are convinced by fair arguments, they will make any sacrifice to assure the freedom of America.

He Is To Model Prison Clothes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—It is seldom that a man is sent to jail because he does a poor job, but Albert J. Demers of Thomaston, Conn., is such an incompetent clothes model that he is going to spend six months in the pokey.

Demers was accused in municipal court of stealing a suit from a parked car in New York and then bringing it here. His defense was that he bought the suit, despite laundry markings identified by the man who said he owned it.

Judge George D. Neilson solved the problem by ordering Demers to don the suit and then model it for the court. The suit ended half way up Demer's arms, and the pants were calf-length. Neilson said Demers could spend the next six months modeling prison costumes.

Sunday Movie Ban Is Lifted

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 9 — The ban on Sunday movies in Cambridge is off.

Residents of Cambridge voted in Tuesday's election to take the "lid" off and permit Sunday movies. For years, a city ordinance prohibited theatergoers from attending film showings on the Sabbath.

Apportionment Plan May Give GOP More Seats

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 — The Republicans appear headed today for further gains in the House under the new congressional apportionment plan reflecting the population shift from east to west.

The plan, based on the 1950 census, switches 14 House seats to California and six other states in the Far West, Midwest, and South.

California will get seven new representatives. The Golden State has a Republican governor and GOP legislature. Thus, the redistricting is certain to be carried out in a manner exploiting the party's strength in future elections.

The other states awarded new House seats in the apportionment plan turned over to President Truman earlier this month by Commerce Secretary Sawyer and Census Director Roy V. Peel are:

Florida, two; Maryland, one; Michigan, one; Texas, one; Virginia, one; Washington, one.

Republicans count on new strength in Michigan, which has a GOP governor-elect and a predominantly Republican state legislature.

Washington and Maryland also will be under GOP governors when the plan becomes effective.

Florida, Texas, and Virginia are under Democrat control.

THE PROBABLE reapportionment outcome therefore would be: Republicans, 10 new congressmen; Democrats, four.

The states slated to lose House seats under the reapportionment program are Arkansas, one; Illinois one; Kentucky, one; Mississippi, one; Missouri, two; New York, two; Oklahoma, six; Pennsylvania, three; Tennessee, one.

The GOP is in power in Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania, the Democrats in Arkansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Oklahoma, and Tennessee.

Livestock Sale Volume, Prices Edge Upward

Volume of livestock sales continued to increase this week, according to Pickaway County Livestock Association.

A small increase in prices was reported by the association for cattle, calves and sheep. Hog prices were down a little.

A Wednesday sale of 1,426 animals, an increase of 351 over the 1,075 head sold last week, was reported.

Chamber Commerce Sets Tuesday Dinner Meeting

Circleville Chamber of Commerce has scheduled a dinner meeting for 6:30 p. m. next Tuesday in Court-Main restaurant.

According to Chamber Secretary John Magill, discussion during the meeting will center on plans for Christmas decorations for downtown streets and stores and on store hours throughout December.

Magill said there will also be a report read on the results of the chamber's recent drive for funds for Circleville high school band uniforms.

They said the money collected by passing buckets through the crowd during the Westerville game will be placed in a special band fund.

The money probably will be turned over to a proposed band mothers organization, he added.

MAGILL EXPLAINED that a movement to organize the band mothers will get under way at the close of the football season. Band Director Truman Eberly has promised to submit a list of the mothers to the chamber then.

An attempt to raise funds from chamber members to send the band to the Washington C. H. game is being made. Magill said letters have been sent out to members asking for $1 contributions.

The chamber secretary said another possible discussion point during next Tuesday's meeting will be a project to construct a municipal swimming pool.

Results of a survey of Circleville service clubs on the pool issue will be given during the meeting.

Magill said the poll of service clubs, while too small to present a true picture, showed service club members to be in favor of the pool.

Main issue, Magill claimed, will be whether the pool should be city or privately owned.

Ex-Slave Is Wed At Age Of 100

TOLEDO, Nov. 9—Mrs. Eliza Armstrong, 100-year-old Detroit woman born in slavery, and her 76-year-old sweetheart, Joseph Knox, were married here late yesterday.

The couple, who met two years ago, were married by Justice of the Peace Judge Judd. They will make their home in Detroit.

Mrs. Knox said she was born in slavery on the plantation of William Chaney near Amercuss, Ga., on Oct. 4, 1850. She was 12 years old when Abraham Lincoln emancipated the slaves. Her first husband, William Armstrong, to whom she was married 83 years ago died in 1940.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Thanks to my many friends for the wonderful vote that was cast for me.

I appreciate your efforts. Thanks to the Jr. Chamber of Commerce – they did a swell job getting out the voters.

King Gustav V Is Buried

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 9 — The body of King Gustav V of Sweden, who died Oct. 29, was entombed today in the royal vault of Riddarholm church, traditional burial place of Swedish kings, in Stockholm.

Thousands of Swedes jammed the snowy route along which the funeral cortege moved to the church.

The late monarch's son, King Gustav VI, walked the mile from the palace to the church along streets strewn with fir. He was accompanied by King Haakon of Norway and King Frederick of Denmark.

Again Freedom Faces A Threat

Today, when war in a far distant country becomes "a police action;" when our youth face training for war in order that our nation may be strong enough to help to maintain peace throughout the world; when world peace, which we so ardently desire, seems to rest on such a precarious footing—it may be wise to give some thought to the lessons of those less complicated times of the First World War—and to the welcome day which marked its conclusion.

Before an altar decorated with rust chrysanthemums and fern and seven branch candelabra Miss Neve Bell Swackhamer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Swackhamer of Laurelville, Cecil Eugene Wharf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wharf of Florida were united in marriage. The ceremony took place at 7:30 p. m. Saturday Nov. 4 in the Evangelical United Brethren church with Rev. Raymond Welch of Wellston officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white satin with lace trim. Her veil was held in place by a small bouquet of white flowers. The matron of honor, Mrs. Eugene Thomas, wore rose taetta and the bride's maids, Mrs. Orville Kempton of Laurelville and Miss Dorothy Graves of Kingston wore aqua tafetta gowns; all were made alike. The bride carried red roses and her attendants carried red and white carnations. Francis Swackhamer, brother of the bride, served as best man and ushers were Paul Lively and Orville Kempton. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church basement for 50 guests. Both are graduates of Laurelville high school. The bride is employed by the Circleville G. E. plant and Mr. Wharf is a carpenter and works in Laurelville. They will live in Laurelville.

King Gustav V Is Buried

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 9 — The body of King Gustav V of Sweden, who died Oct. 29, was entombed today in the royal vault of Riddarholm church, traditional burial place of Swedish kings, in Stockholm.

Thousands of Swedes jammed the snowy route along which the funeral cortege moved to the church.

The late monarch's son, King Gustav VI, walked the mile from the palace to the church along streets strewn with fir. He was accompanied by King Haakon of Norway and King Frederick of Denmark.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Again Freedom Faces A Threat

Today, when war in a far distant country becomes "a police action;" when our youth face training for war in order that our nation may be strong enough to help to maintain peace throughout the world; when world peace, which we so ardently desire, seems to rest on such a precarious footing—it may be wise to give some thought to the lessons of those less complicated times of the First World War—and to the welcome day which marked its conclusion.

$200,000 MORE NEEDED

Inflation Playing Hob With Hospital Project

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Nov. 9—Inflation works in drastic ways its evils to perform.

The people of Hunterdon County, of which Flemington is the county seat, have been struggling heroically during the last 18 months to raise $1,080,000 to build themselves a hospital. If they could raise that much money, they were told, the federal government would ante up $800,000 under the Hill-Burton Act.

People out this way have scraped the bottom of the sock and of the old teapot in an effort to raise the money that would build the first hospital in the county and inaugurate one of the most interesting and far-reaching experiments in rural medicine in the United States.

But they are going to have to squeeze the sock and shake the teapot once more, for the cruel and skyrockeeing inflationary spiral since the beginning of the Korean war last June has added another mere $200,000 to the cost of building the hospital as originally planned.

The cost of building the 104-bedroom Hunterdon Medical Center has risen $200,000 in less than five months.

It is doubtful if any rural county has ever undertaken a bigger, a more interesting or a more intensive campaign for funds for its own medical betterment. The people of Hunterdon County, almost exclusively agricultural, have so far raised more than $1 million without benefit of a professional fund-raising organization.

WHEN THE PEOPLE discovered that it would cost from 12 to 18 percent of the total sum collected to hire professional fund raisers, they decided to do their own solicitation.

In the last 18 months, more than 600 residents of the county have visited their friends and neighbors and racked up more than $1 million in a county in which two professional fund-raising groups said it would be impossible to collect a maximum of more than $600,000!

The county goal is now just double that figure. Natives have no doubt that somehow the socks and the teapots will yield the necessary $1,200,000.

This is not a rich suburban area, as Westchester and the fancy Connecticut country districts north of New York City. Down hyar in Hunterdon County, south of New York City, residents for the most part are farmers and wage slaves. Else they'd probably have had a hospital in the county long before this

If nobody is dirt poor, neither is any one hog rich. So the fact that 7,400 of the county's 10,000 families have contributed to the hospital fund is a triumph for everyone concerned.

There have been only three personal gifts of $10,000 or over. Most of the gifts have ranged from $100 to $500.

The whole county has pitched in to raise the necessary money for its hospital. The ladies' aids and auxiliaries have given a hundred ham, chicken and turkey dinners in every nook and cranny of the county.

There have been a couple of countywide auction sales at the fairgrounds in Flemington. At the last auction, held a couple of weeks ago, an autographed photograph of Elsie, the cow, brought $2.50 from one of her admirers. But the auctioneer couldn't get a plugged cent for autographed photos of David Niven, Boris Karloff, Jack Benny, Groucho Marx, Bob Montgomery, Franchot Tone or Dick Powell.

COUNTY TALENT has twice presented a musical revue, "Strike Twelve," which, if the talent scouts care, has revealed that Lola Hoffman, a checker in a Flemington grocery, is another Sophie Tucker.

Lloyd Wescott, cattle man, secretary and chairman of the fund-raising campaign, says one county resident even offered to raise earthworms for cost if the committee would dispose of them at retail.

Two young brothers, Augustine, 13, and Salvatore Loprinzi Jr., 12, raised $200 by shining shoes. Their father, the local barber, underwrote the boys' pledge. But they earned the sum in less than a year, although $200 is an awful lot of shoe shines.

Now inflation has played hob with plans for the hospital. But the county is determined to raise the additional sum needed, and Augustine and Salvatore are overhauling their shoe shine equipment.

A woman can enter as many pieces of her work as she pleases. All she has to do it write and ask for an admission blank and return it by September 15th. All entries must be in by September 22nd.

Wheat Marketing Quotas Ruled Out By Ag Secretary

The announcement of Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan that no marketing quotas will be proclaimed for the 1951 wheat crop is the result of compliance among most wheat growers throughout the wheat area with their 1950 acreage allotments, many wheat growers believe. ?

In making the announcement of no 1951 marketing quotas, Brannan said, "if wheat growers in general plant within their 1951 crop acreage allotments, as they did for the 1950 crop, it may be possible to continue to avoid marketing quotas in the future."

The estimated total supply of wheat for the 1950-51 marketing year is 1,395 million bushels, or about 18 percent more than the normal supply of 1,179 million bushels.

UN GOES ON BUYING SPREE

By JOHN GOETTE
Central Press Correspondent

NEW YORK—The envy of every ardent American woman shopper is the director of the purchase division of the United Nations. He is looking for $2,000,000 worth of bargains, ranging from steel desks to fine carpets and decorative woodwork.

These widely assorted items are needed to furnish the 39-story Secretariat building soon to be completed on the East River site of the UN's permanent headquarters in New York City.

The equivalent of 20 acres in office space must be outfitted in this 31st among Manhattan's tallest skyscrapers. Constructed at a cost of $24,000,000, it is the first of four units planned to house the UN organizations.

Contracts have now been let for the second unit, a $12,000,000 meeting area with chambers for the three main councils.

The purchasing division is going on its gigantic buying spree in international fashion. All 59 member nations were polled to see which could supply what.

Thirty-seven replied expectantly. Only five had nothing to offer. Of the Big Five powers, France, Britain, China and the United States were eager to sell, but the fifth, Soviet Russia, gave no response.

DISCUSSING the problem of furnishing the new UN home, Secretary General Trygve Lie said: "It is my hope and expectation that the decoration of the UN headquarters will represent the finest and most beautiful examples of the art of all peoples.

"To achieve this result is by no means an easy task. It requires tact and judgment as well as taste and artistic skill to make the requisite decisions."

An American, Wallace Harrison presides over the vast purchasing venture as director of planning.

The complete scheme of the UN permanent headquarters is based on the interest-free loan of $65,000,000 made by the United States government.

Furnishings sought at present must be adapted to the unique architectural nature of the 544-foot tall Secretariat building, which is all windows on the east and west sides, and solid walls of Vermont marble on the north and south.

THE 5,400 separate windows would cover six full acres, while 2,000 tons of white Vermont marble went into the unbroken north and south facades.

President Truman attended the laying of the cornerstone of the Secretariat building last Autumn, but it will be the spring of 1951 before the 3,000 staff of the UN can shift entirely from its present temporary headquarters at nearby Lake Success on Long Island.

When it gets into its real home, the UN will save $202,831 yearly rent on the make-shift establishment located in a former wartime airplane plant.

In the words of Chief Planner Wallace K. Harrison, the six block international enclave running between the East river and First avenue and from East 42nd street to East 48th street, is dedicated as a "Workshop for World Peace."

However, in the quest for $2,000,000 worth of furnishings, conflicting national tastes and commercial competition raise their heads.

When the Board of Art disagrees, the argument goes to a top level Headquarters Advisory Board to restore the peace for which the United Nations organization stands.

UN GOES ON BUYING SPREE

By JOHN GOETTE
Central Press Correspondent

NEW YORK—The envy of every ardent American woman shopper is the director of the purchase division of the United Nations. He is looking for $2,000,000 worth of bargains, ranging from steel desks to fine carpets and decorative woodwork.

These widely assorted items are needed to furnish the 39-story Secretariat building soon to be completed on the East River site of the UN's permanent headquarters in New York City.

The equivalent of 20 acres in office space must be outfitted in this 31st among Manhattan's tallest skyscrapers. Constructed at a cost of $24,000,000, it is the first of four units planned to house the UN organizations.

Contracts have now been let for the second unit, a $12,000,000 meeting area with chambers for the three main councils.

The purchasing division is going on its gigantic buying spree in international fashion. All 59 member nations were polled to see which could supply what.

Thirty-seven replied expectantly. Only five had nothing to offer. Of the Big Five powers, France, Britain, China and the United States were eager to sell, but the fifth, Soviet Russia, gave no response.

DISCUSSING the problem of furnishing the new UN home, Secretary General Trygve Lie said: "It is my hope and expectation that the decoration of the UN headquarters will represent the finest and most beautiful examples of the art of all peoples.

"To achieve this result is by no means an easy task. It requires tact and judgment as well as taste and artistic skill to make the requisite decisions."

An American, Wallace Harrison presides over the vast purchasing venture as director of planning.

The complete scheme of the UN permanent headquarters is based on the interest-free loan of $65,000,000 made by the United States government.

Furnishings sought at present must be adapted to the unique architectural nature of the 544-foot tall Secretariat building, which is all windows on the east and west sides, and solid walls of Vermont marble on the north and south.

THE 5,400 separate windows would cover six full acres, while 2,000 tons of white Vermont marble went into the unbroken north and south facades.

President Truman attended the laying of the cornerstone of the Secretariat building last Autumn, but it will be the spring of 1951 before the 3,000 staff of the UN can shift entirely from its present temporary headquarters at nearby Lake Success on Long Island.

When it gets into its real home, the UN will save $202,831 yearly rent on the make-shift establishment located in a former wartime airplane plant.

In the words of Chief Planner Wallace K. Harrison, the six block international enclave running between the East river and First avenue and from East 42nd street to East 48th street, is dedicated as a "Workshop for World Peace."

However, in the quest for $2,000,000 worth of furnishings, conflicting national tastes and commercial competition raise their heads.

When the Board of Art disagrees, the argument goes to a top level Headquarters Advisory Board to restore the peace for which the United Nations organization stands.

Infectious Pig Disease Is Noted

Farmers Warned To Be Alert

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — Outbreaks of infectious rhinitis in swine-producing states are causing considerable confusion among farmers and may be paving the way for serious losses, the American Foundation for Animal Health reported today.

Some hog raisers have mistaken common "bull nose" for infectious rhinitis, and have sold off their herds and gone out of the hog business, the Foundation said.

Other swine raisers whose herds actually have been attacked by infectious rhinitis have assumed that pigs with deformed faces were only suffering from "bull nose" and have tried to carry on "business as usual."

Either mistakes may be costly, the authorities warned.

To clarify the situation, a foundation bulletin makes these points:

"1. INFECTIOUS rhinitis is a contagious disease. Affected pigs sneeze frequently, scour, and have discharges from the nose. They may shake their heads frequently and rub against posts and bedding. Pneumonia often complicates the condition. Some of the pigs develop a peculiar dished-in snout.

"2. 'Bull nose' is not a contagious disease. It usually follows an injury to the snout, and infection is caused by contamination with ordinary barnyard germs. The pig's face becomes deformed.

"3. Pigs affected by either ailment may make poor gains—or fail to grow at all. But while 'bull nose' affects only an occasional animal, infectious rhinitis spreads slowly throughout the entire herd, getting worse every year.

"If an owner suspects an outbreak of infectious rhinitis the safest course is to isolate sick pigs until the veterinarian arrives. Further action is useless until the real cause of the trouble has been diagnosed."

Weather Leaves Britain's Bees Far Too Weak

LONDON—The vagaries of this year's weather have left Britain's bees too weak to work. In fact, they have hardly a "buzz" left in them.

Just how the weather has played havoc with the usually busy little English bee was explained by an official of the British Beekeeper's Association.

What they need to restore their energy, he said, is an increased ration of sugar.

January warmth kept the bees out of their hives until well into the afternoons. Then came a cold spell and the workers went back to the hives just when they should have been busiest.

The idle bees ate heavily into their available food. Now as a result, thousands of them are dying of starvation.

This means that there will be less honey and less fruit for Britain next fall.

Agriculture Ministry estimates of the country's fruit crop show that the yield of cherries and plums will be the lowest in years.

Apple and pear crops will not be as good in 1950 as in 1949, but they are expected to be sufficient.

Stocks of bees are very weak and there has been trouble in raising queens. Keepers say they will appeal to the Ministry to allow them a greater supply of sugar so that stocks can be rebuilt.

Surplus Food Handout Noted

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 — The Agriculture Department says the government has passed out 270 million pounds of free surplus foods for domestic distribution to the needy so far this year. Government donations to private welfare organizations for foreign relief purposes totaled nearly 74 million pounds.

The department is permitted by law to give away free to public and private welfare agencies food which it acquired under government price support operations.

Distribution of free food to domestic welfare organizations included: Nine millon pounds of powdered milk; four million pounds of dried eggs; 219 million pounds of potatoes; 24 million pounds of butter and 14 million pounds of cheese.

Swine Output Costs Cut By Supplements

Farmers with ample supplies of grain may be tempted to fill the hog self-feeder with corn and cut down on the amount of, or even eliminate, the protein supplement. Such a step is not as thrifty as it may seem.

Experiments have shown that hogs fed corn alone in dry lot require 11 to 12 bushels of corn per hundred pounds of grain. When a good protein supplement is used in the ration, 100 pounds of pork can be produced with five and one half to six bushels of corn and 50 pounds protein supplement.

With hog and feed prices what they are, this means that every bushel of corn fed with a good protein supplement is worth $2.25 to $2.75 per bushel, while hogs fed corn alone return only $1.50 to $1.75 per bushel of corn consumed.

Hogs fed grain and a balanced supplement will reach market weight in five and one half to six months.

Truckers Facing Tougher Rules

CLEVELAND, Nov. 9—Truck drivers may soon be limited to 25 miles an hour while passing through six western suburbs of Cleveland.

Mayors from Rocky River, Fairview Park, Bay Village, Westlake, Olmstead Falls and North Olmstead voted last night in Bay Village Hall to place such a limit on truckers driving through their municipalities.

The city officials also agreed to warn state officials that truck traffic has become such a problem that they are considering banning it entirely in their areas.

War Housing Torn Down In Portland

The Portland Housing Authority is preparing to sell for razing or removal the remaining 6634 units of what was one of the nation's greatest concentrations of temporary war housing.

First on the list for razing within the next few months is the 1541-unit Guilds Lake Courts and then the 204-unit University Homes.

The Housing Act of 1950 requires razing or removal from present locations of temporary housing by July 1, 1952 if still owned by the federal government.

Other reasons for the razing are that temporary units do not meet the city building code and a City Council ruling that buildings may not be moved intact through the city streets unless relocated 20 or more miles outside Portland.

The largest single project and once the fourth city in population in Oregon during the war was the $25,000,000 city of Vanport. The Columbia river wiped out this project during the 1948 flood, destroying 6713 units built to house shipyard and other war workers.

Today, Vanport is a barren stretch of cleared river bottom land north of Portland. Only the pattern of empty streets leading nowhere indicate the area housed 20,000 persons at the wartime peak.

Portland voters do not care for public housing projects. The City Council approved and sent to the voters a plan to use federal funds to build 2,000 low rental units of a permanent nature for small income families to be scattered in small groups through the city.

Voters killed the proposed project by a substantial majority in the May 19 primaries following a bitterly contested campaign.

Unless the Portland Housing Authority receives the remaining projects from the Federal Government or they are sold to private contractors for conversion into homes meeting the building code, Portland will see the last of the temporary war-time buildings in 1952.

NOTICE OF SALE OF BONDS

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the office of the County Comissioners of Pickaway County in Circleville, Ohio until 12 o'clock noon of November 13, 1950, for the purchase of bonds of said County, in the aggregate amount of $10,000.00, dated the 1st day of September 1950, and bearing interest at a rate not to exceed 6 percent, per annum, payable annually, issued for the purpose of constructing substructures and approaches for bridge No. 12, Road No. 43, Walnut Township Pickaway County, Ohio and under authority of the laws of Ohio and of Sections 2293-25 of the General Code of Ohio, and under and in accordance with a certain Resolution of the Board of County Comissioners of said County, entitled: Resolution To Issue Bonds Without a Vote of the People in the sum of $10,000.00 to be used for the purpose of constructing substructures and approaches for bridge No. 12, Road No. 43, Walnut Township, Pickaway County, Ohio, passed on the 18th Day of September, 1950.

Said bonds are of the denomination and mature, respectively, as follows:

Bond	Amount	Mature
No. 1	$1,000.00	Sept. 1, 1952
No. 2	$1,000.00	Sept. 1, 1953
No. 3	$1,000.00	Sept. 1, 1954
No. 4	$1,000.00	Sept. 1, 1955
No. 5	$1,000.00	Sept. 1, 1956
No. 6	$1,000.00	Sept. 1, 1957
No. 7	$1,000.00	Sept. 1, 1958
No. 8	$1,000.00	Sept. 1, 1959
No. 9	$1,000.00	Sept. 1, 1960
No. 10	$1,000.00	Sept. 1, 1961

Any one desiring to do so may present a bid or bids for said bonds based upon their bearing a different rate of interest than specified in the advertisement provided, however, that where a fractional interest rate is bid such fraction shall be one-quarter of 1 per cent or multiples thereof.

Said bonds will be sold to the highest bidder at the time and place above mentioned, at not less than par and accrued interest.

Bids may be made upon all or any number of bonds of this issue.

All bids must state the number of bonds bid for and the gross amount of bid and accrued interest to date of delivery.

All bids must be accompanied by a certified check drawn in favor of the Board of County Comissioners of Pickaway County, Ohio, in the sum of $1,000.00.

The Board of County Comissioners of said County reserves the privilege to reject any and all bids.

Bids should be sealed and endorsed "Bids for constructing Bonds", structures and approaches for bridge No. 12, Road No. 43, Walnut Township, Pickaway County, Ohio. By order of the Board of County Commissioners of Pickaway County, Ohio.

October 23, 1950.

CHS HOLDS SCORING EDGE

Washington Coach Plans Deep Strategy For Tilt

Washington C. H. can always be counted upon to come up with some new widget for its traditional meeting against the Circleville Tigers football team.

And this year apparently is no different.

According to the Washington C. H. Record-Herald, Grid Mentor Fred Pierson, "brains" for the Washington Blue Lion team, said:

He added: "We know Circleville has scouted us, and we're gonna make some revisions, especially in the offense."

HOWEVER, at the thought of Pierson dreaming up Tiger-shattering plays, one local observer snorted:

"Nyah, Pierson doesn't even know which end to scratch."

Perhaps the Circleville observer may be a little prejudiced.

Taking a look at last week's loss of 12-7 to Bexley in the mud, though, the Lion offensive apparently needs refreshening.

On the offense, the Lions tallied seven first downs for the game; gained a total of 158 yards; completed two passes in six tries; and fumbled three times.

On the other hand, however, the winning Bexley team was held by Washington to only two first downs, according to officials; gained only 110 yards; and fumbled five times.

So far this season the Lions have shown themselves to be primarily a defensive team.

IN EIGHT STARTS to date this season, the Lions have won only four games. But in each of its four losses this season the Lions have not been beaten by more than eight points.

Washington has a young team this season, only three of its starters being seniors. The remainder, for the most part, are sophomores.

In their eight contests to date, the Lions have tallied a total of 187 points for an average of 23.3 points per encounter while allowing the opposition only 97 points or 12.1 per game.

Circleville holds the scoring edge over their traditional foes, however.

Circleville's eight games this season have yielded it a total of 319 points for an average of 39.8 per game, although allowing its visitors to score 115 points for an average of 14.3 per encounter.

The Tigers are expected to be ready for whatever the fertile Pierson mind can cook up for Friday's tilt.

After mild practice sessions both Monday and Tuesday this week, Coach Steve Brudzinski ordered his young charges through a defensive workout Wednesday to complete the body-contact practice work for the 1950 season.

SHOWING THE intensive struggle by the two teams to prove their superiority in season-end games during the last nine years, Circleville has won four, lost four and tied one with the Lions since 1941.

And, during the last nine years, Washington has held Circleville scoreless three times while the Tigers have been able to hold the Lions without score only twice.

Circleville does hold a scoring edge in the series, however. In its games, the Tigers have racked up a total of 110 points against the Lions. The Lions have been able to score only 72 against CHS.

Circleville will be battling Friday to break the series tie as well as to win its third South Central Ohio League championship with an unblemished record.

Washington C. H. high school officials assured local fans Thursday that its advance "reserve ticket" sales in Circleville are choice ducats. The Washington high school principal said the 345 reserved tickets available in Circleville high school Thursday and Friday are for choice seats, by seat and number, between the 40-yard lines. "Seat 23 is on the 40-yard-line," he said. Also on sale here are 500 student general admission tickets and 1,250 adult general admissions.

Probable starting lineup for Washington in the final contest will be:

Ends—Dave Sheidler and Joe Wilson.

Tackles — Jim Runnels and Wayne VanMeter.

Guards — Dick Waters and Dick Eckle.

Center—Dale Orihood.

Backs — Bob Alkire, Carl Smith, Neal Childress and Joe Burke.

Sokolsky's

Now that the Russian empire is moving into Tibet, the manipulation of Buddhism in its Lamaistic form becomes increasingly important to Stalin. The spiritual headship of Lamaism is vested in the Dalai Lama, the reincarnation of a Bodhisat; the Panchen Lama has for centuries been a competitor for authority. The Panchen Tashi Lama is also a reincarnation of a Bodhisat.

A Bodhisat is a holy and wise man who has not yet completed the enlightenment of Buddhahood, but is on his way toward that goal of perfection.

It is a long story to describe the differences between the Dalai Lama, whose court is in the great monastery at Lhasa, and the Panchen Lama, whose monastery is at Tashi Lunpo. Suffice it to say here that both are revered by millions of Tibetans, Mongols and Chinese. Their moral influence extends not over all Buddhists, but over those who accept its Lamaistic form.

In recent years, the Dalai Lama looked toward India for friendship and support, while the Panchen Lama tended to be closer to China. I actually met and conversed with the predecessor of the present Panchen Lama when he was in Shanghai. He was there seeking an alliance against the Dalai Lama and the Indian government.

It is the Panchen Lama who is now associating himself with the Soviet system. This gives to Russian imperialism the leverage of another church, one that is widely influential in Mongolia and China and even among some of the tribesmen lying on the borders of India and China.

The political advantage of this relationship is obviously significant in lands where resistance to the dialectical materialism of Marxism can be overcome by control of those who are devoted to the doctrine of Karma. The Panchen Lama thus becomes a tool of empire.

Band To Travel To Washington

Circleville high school's marching band will accompany its Red and Black football team to Washington C. H. Friday night to close the 1950 grid season.

Director Truman Eberly said the Friday trip is to be sponsored by the Circleville Chamber of Commerce.

The director said the Chamber has provided for three school buses for transportation. The 65-piece marching unit is to leave Circleville at about 6 p. m.

Eberly said the CHS band will merge with the Washington band for pre-game ceremonies, while it will perform first during halftime.

Theme for the performance by the local bandsmen is to be of a patriotic nature in observance of Armistice Day.

Pro Gridder's Skull Cracked

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 — Left Halfback Forrest Griffith will be lost to the New York football Giants for the rest of the National Football League season.

The rookie sensation from Kansas suffered a fractured skull in last Sunday's game with the Washington Redskins. Griffith was reported "in good condition" and "resting comfortably." He is expected to remain in the hospital four weeks.

CHS HOLDS SCORING EDGE

Washington Coach Plans Deep Strategy For Tilt

Washington C. H. can always be counted upon to come up with some new widget for its traditional meeting against the Circleville Tigers football team.

And this year apparently is no different.

According to the Washington C. H. Record-Herald, Grid Mentor Fred Pierson, "brains" for the Washington Blue Lion team, said:

"Workouts this week will follow the usual pattern, but with unusual stress."

He added: "We know Circleville has scouted us, and we're gonna make some revisions, especially in the offense."

HOWEVER, at the thought of Pierson dreaming up Tiger-shattering plays, one local observer snorted:

"Nyah, Pierson doesn't even know which end to scratch."

Perhaps the Circleville observer may be a little prejudiced.

Taking a look at last week's loss of 12-7 to Bexley in the mud, though, the Lion offensive apparently needs refreshening.

On the offense, the Lions tallied seven first downs for the game; gained a total of 158 yards; completed two passes in six tries; and fumbled three times.

On the other hand, however, the winning Bexley team was held by Washington to only two first downs, according to officials; gained only 110 yards; and fumbled five times.

So far this season the Lions have shown themselves to be primarily a defensive team.

IN EIGHT STARTS to date this season, the Lions have won only four games. But in each of its four losses this season the Lions have not been beaten by more than eight points.

Washington has a young team this season, only three of its starters being seniors. The remainder, for the most part, are sophomores.

The young Blue Lions haven't done too poorly for themselves in the scoring department this season, however.

In their eight contests to date, the Lions have tallied a total of 187 points for an average of 23.3 points per encounter while allowing the opposition only 97 points or 12.1 per game.

Circleville holds the scoring edge over their traditional foes, however.

Circleville's eight games this season have yielded it a total of 319 points for an average of 39.8 per game, although allowing its visitors to score 115 points for an average of 14.3 per encounter.

The Tigers are expected to be ready for whatever the fertile Pierson mind can cook up for Friday's tilt.

After mild practice sessions both Monday and Tuesday this week, Coach Steve Brudzinski ordered his young charges through a defensive workout Wednesday to complete the body-contact practice work for the 1950 season.

SHOWING THE intensive struggle by the two teams to prove their superiority in season-end games during the last nine years, Circleville has won four, lost four and tied one with the Lions since 1941.

And, during the last nine years, Washington has held Circleville scoreless three times while the Tigers have been able to hold the Lions without score only twice.

Circleville does hold a scoring edge in the series, however. In its games, the Tigers have racked up a total of 110 points against the Lions. The Lions have been able to score only 72 against CHS.

Circleville will be battling Friday to break the series tie as well as to win its third South Central Ohio League championship with an unblemished record.

Washington C. H. high school officials assured local fans Thursday that its advance "reserve ticket" sales in Circleville are choice ducats. The Washington high school principal said the 345 reserved tickets available in Circleville high school Thursday and Friday are for choice seats, by seat and number, between the 40-yard lines. "Seat 23 is on the 40-yard-line," he said. Also on sale here are 500 student general admission tickets and 1,250 adult general admissions.

Probable starting lineup for Washington in the final contest will be:

Ends—Dave Sheidler and Joe Wilson.

Tackles — Jim Runnels and Wayne VanMeter.

Guards — Dick Waters and Dick Eckle.

Center—Dale Orihood.

Sokolsky's

Now that the Russian empire is moving into Tibet, the manipulation of Buddhism in its Lamaistic form becomes increasingly important to Stalin. The spiritual headship of Lamaism is vested in the Dalai Lama, the reincarnation of a Bodhisat; the Panchen Lama has for centuries been a competitor for authority. The Panchen Tashi Lama is also a reincarnation of a Bodhisat.

A Bodhisat is a holy and wise man who has not yet completed the enlightenment of Buddhahood, but is on his way toward that goal of perfection.

It is a long story to describe the differences between the Dalai Lama, whose court is in the great monastery at Lhasa, and the Panchen Lama, whose monastery is at Tashi Lunpo. Suffice it to say here that both are revered by millions of Tibetans, Mongols and Chinese. Their moral influence extends not over all Buddhists, but over those who accept its Lamaistic form.

In recent years, the Dalai Lama looked toward India for friendship and support, while the Panchen Lama tended to be closer to China. I actually met and conversed with the predecessor of the present Panchen Lama when he was in Shanghai. He was there seeking an alliance against the Dalai Lama and the Indian government.

It is the Panchen Lama who is now associating himself with the Soviet system. This gives to Russian imperialism the leverage of another church, one that is widely influential in Mongolia and China and even among some of the tribesmen lying on the borders of India and China.

The political advantage of this relationship is obviously significant in lands where resistance to the dialectical materialism of Marxism can be overcome by control of those who are devoted to the doctrine of Karma. The Panchen Lama thus becomes a tool of empire.

Band To Travel To Washington

Circleville high school's marching band will accompany its Red and Black football team to Washington C. H. Friday night to close the 1950 grid season.

Director Truman Eberly said the Friday trip is to be sponsored by the Circleville Chamber of Commerce.

The director said the Chamber has provided for three school buses for transportation. The 65-piece marching unit is to leave Circleville at about 6 p. m.

Eberly said the CHS band will merge with the Washington band for pre-game ceremonies, while it will perform first during halftime.

Theme for the performance by the local bandsmen is to be of a patriotic nature in observance of Armistice Day.

Pro Gridder's Skull Cracked

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 — Left Halfback Forrest Griffith will be lost to the New York football Giants for the rest of the National Football League season.

The rookie sensation from Kansas suffered a fractured skull in last Sunday's game with the Washington Redskins. Griffith was reported "in good condition" and "resting comfortably." He is expected to remain in the hospital four weeks.

PEAK SEASON PREDICTED

Ohio Hunting Laws Made To Aid, Not Hurt, Nimrod

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — The Ohio Fall hunting season is approaching rapidly. In fact, only a week remains until Buckeye gunners will be taking to the fields and woods in quest of rabbit, pheasant and grouse, and the trappers will be placing their traps for legal fur-bearers.

The season opens at 9 a. m. next Wednesday.

According to reports received by the Wildlife Division and surveys conducted by the Ohio Wildlife Research Unit, both hunters and trappers should enjoy one of the best seasons in many years.

Game populations, particularly rabbit, pheasant, raccoon and opossum, are at a peak in Ohio, and other legal game is reportedly plentiful. It should be a banner year for Ohio sportsmen.

To make it an even more successful season, the Wildlife Division urges hunters to be courteous at all times to farmers and landowners, to use extreme care in the handling of firearms, and to observe the state game laws to the letter. All three are vitally important components of hunting success and enjoyment.

Discourtesy will cause embarrassment, the loss of one's friends and probably the privilage of future hunting on some favorite grounds.

MISUSE OR carelessness in handling firearms may cost your life or the life of a friend and companion. Even a non-fatal accident may terminate future hunting and other pleasures of life. It may even cost you your job and ability to provide for your family.

In any event the price of carelessness or discourtesy is extremely high. Observe these basic rules of good hunting and avoid becoming a victim this or any other year.

Another highly important filament in the key to hunting success is the observance of the hunting and fishing laws.

These laws were made to insure good hunting, not to destroy or curtail it, and must be observed if good hunting and fishing is to continue.

Failure to comply with the laws results only in a loss to the violator. It will cost him money, which is severe enough, but in some cases it may even cost him his right to hunt in the future. No sportsman wants that.

Last year a total of 2,807 violators were arrested in the state of Ohio, and paid a total of $64,423 in fines—an average of about $23 an arrest.

However there is every indication that serious minded sportsmen are beginning to realize more and more that only by strict observance of the game and fish laws can the sport of public hunting and fishing survive, and as a result lawbreaking is fortunately on the decline.

On the other hand there are still a number of self styled "sportsmen" who think that laws are made to spoil their sport.

AND THE CONDUCT of this kind of "sportsman" has had a very damaging effect on farmer-sportsman relations.

But for the most part our army of Ohio hunters conduct themselves in a commendable manner. The true sportsman respects the farmers rights. He is courteous and never fails to express his appreciation for the privilege of hunting or fishing. He is careful with his gun, and he observes the law.

The Wildlife division urges all hunters this year to follow those premises, and make 1950 the best hunting season yet.

Olney, 'Jitter' Repeat With 600-Pin Games

Two Circleville keglers who scored 600-pin series games in Monday League this week repeated during Wednesday Men's League.

They are Dave Olney, who registered a 601-pin tally for his three games with Ward Market Wednesday, and Harold "Jitter" Stonerock, who burned up the lanes with a 644-pin total for Isalys.

Olney had rolled a 615-pin game during Monday's League this week, while Stonerock had posted a 605-pin series.

Olney registered games of 199-195-207 to earn his honor roll ranking Wednesday.

Stonerock hurled the 644-pin series to rank himself in second slot in high game series for the season. He flubbed in the eighth frame of his first game, however.

IN THE FRAME, while working on a spare with a score of 149, Stonerock pushed past the foul line as his ball whizzed in for a strike. Observers estimated he would have earned a 676-pin total if not for the foul.

As it was, Stonerock earned a 196 for the faulty game, following through with games of 214 and 234. Complete results of the Wednesday Men's League follow:

First Practice Begins Thursday For Jr. Cagers

First call to practice for Circleville's junior high school basketball team was issued here Thursday.

Junior High Coach John Chilcote said he will meet seventh grade basketball players in the school gym Thursday and Friday and plans to meet eighth graders next Monday and Tuesday.

"My biggest need right now," admitted Chilcote, "is games".

"I'll have plenty of boys coming out to play ball, but so far I have only two contests booked—and those for December."

FIVE OF LAST year's junior high cage team are expected to report back to duty this year. They are Mike Brown, Dave Greeno, Philip Wantz, Bill Glitt and Dave Styers.

"If any of the other junior high coaches want to book games with our team they can contact me at the Circleville high school building," Chilcote offered hopefully.

Deers Open Year With 47-33 Win Over Atlanta

Williamsport Deers basketball team travelled to Atlanta Tuesday to blast the lid from its 1950 season with a 47-33 victory over the host Red Raiders.

The Deers opened slowly during the first period of the encounter to post a 9-6 lead and by halftime trailed on the short end of a 15-14 count.

However, the Williamsporters rebounded in the second half to tally up a 31-21 third period advantage and to sweep into the final 47-33 win in the fourth stanza.

Clarence Hastings of Williamsport and Harley Evans of Atlanta tied for scoring honors with 16 points each in the tilt.

Williamsport reserves followed in the footsteps of its varsity to chalk up a 33-24 win over the Raider subs, although the junior Red Raider team handed Williamsport juniors a 46-20 walloping in the evening's opener.

Ashville Cage Oracle Gives His 'Purdictions'

Williamsport, Scioto, Pickaway and Saltcreek are out of luck in their Pickaway County Basketball League openers scheduled for Friday night.

That is, they are out of luck if the "purdictions" of a self-appointed Ashville oracle come true.

The "oracle" sent in the anonymous following letter to The Circleville Herald:

"Here are the purdiction of this weeks basketball games around the county. I will send you one every week.

"MONROE vs WILLIAMsport—This should be the game of the week. The home team is my pick. MONROE.

"SCIOTO vs NEW HOLLAND—To much power and reserve strength. NEW HOLLAND

"PICKAWAY vs DARBY—Opened with victory last week and shouldn't be stopped here. DARby.

"JACKSON vs SALTCREEK—Both are weak but home floor should tell the difference. JACKSON

"I will close my name on the last purdiction of the season."

APPARENTLY the last paragraph of the letter is to be "insurance" for the "purdicter." It's even money that if the results of the pre-game "guessperting" don't stack up to 80 percent for the season that he will remain un-named.

Of course, if the "purdiction" runs above 80 percent right, then The Herald anticipates receiving at least a dozen notes from persons identifying themselves as the true oracle.

This week's county league schedule is:

Williamsport at Monroe.
New Holland at Scioto.
Darby at Pickaway.
Saltcreek at Jackson.

SCOL To Meet Wednesday

Circleville coaches and school heads will travel to Wilmington next Wednesday for the annual Fall meeting of the South Central Ohio League.

Chief business of the league will be formal awarding of the league championship in football.

But more important to the boys of the five league-member schools will be the selection of the All-SCO league honor team.

The coaches are to get together during the session to pick the most outstanding players of this league season for special recognition.

Other business of the league confab, scheduled to begin at 6 p. m. Wednesday with dinner, will be preparation for the coming South Central Ohio League basketball season.

With only one more league game remaining, the Circleville delegation is assured of receiving at least honors for a tied championship during the session, since Circleville can fall no lower than to tie for first place in the league whether winning or losing Friday at Washington C. H.

PEAK SEASON PREDICTED

Ohio Hunting Laws Made To Aid, Not Hurt, Nimrod

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9 — The Ohio Fall hunting season is approaching rapidly. In fact, only a week remains until Buckeye gunners will be taking to the fields and woods in quest of rabbit, pheasant and grouse, and the trappers will be placing their traps for legal fur-bearers.

The season opens at 9 a. m. next Wednesday.

According to reports received by the Wildlife Division and surveys conducted by the Ohio Wildlife Research Unit, both hunters and trappers should enjoy one of the best seasons in many years.

Game populations, particularly rabbit, pheasant, raccoon and opossum, are at a peak in Ohio, and other legal game is reportedly plentiful. It should be a banner year for Ohio sportsmen.

To make it an even more successful season, the Wildlife Division urges hunters to be courteous at all times to farmers and landowners, to use extreme care in the handling of firearms, and to observe the state game laws to the letter. All three are vitally important components of hunting success and enjoyment.

Discourtesy will cause embarrassment, the loss of one's friends and probably the privilage of future hunting on some favorite grounds.

MISUSE OR carelessness in handling firearms may cost your life or the life of a friend and companion. Even a non-fatal accident may terminate future hunting and other pleasures of life. It may even cost you your job and ability to provide for your family.

In any event the price of carelessness or discourtesy is extremely high. Observe these basic rules of good hunting and avoid becoming a victim this or any other year.

Another highly important filament in the key to hunting success is the observance of the hunting and fishing laws.

These laws were made to insure good hunting, not to destroy or curtail it, and must be observed if good hunting and fishing is to continue.

Failure to comply with the laws results only in a loss to the violator. It will cost him money, which is severe enough, but in some cases it may even cost him his right to hunt in the future. No sportsman wants that.

Last year a total of 2,807 violators were arrested in the state of Ohio, and paid a total of $64,423 in fines—an average of about $23 an arrest.

However there is every indication that serious minded sportsmen are beginning to realize more and more that only by strict observance of the game and fish laws can the sport of public hunting and fishing survive, and as a result lawbreaking is fortunately on the decline.

On the other hand there are still a number of self styled "sportsmen" who think that laws are made to spoil their sport.

AND THE CONDUCT of this kind of "sportsman" has had a very damaging effect on farmer-sportsman relations.

But for the most part our army of Ohio hunters conduct themselves in a commendable manner. The true sportsman respects the farmers rights. He is courteous and never fails to express his appreciation for the privilege of hunting or fishing. He is careful with his gun, and he observes the law.

The Wildlife division urges all hunters this year to follow those premises, and make 1950 the best hunting season yet.

Olney, 'Jitter' Repeat With 600-Pin Games

Two Circleville keglers who scored 600-pin series games in Monday League this week repeated during Wednesday Men's League.

They are Dave Olney, who registered a 601-pin tally for his three games with Ward Market Wednesday, and Harold "Jitter" Stonerock, who burned up the lanes with a 644-pin total for Isalys.

Olney had rolled a 615-pin game during Monday's League this week, while Stonerock had posted a 605-pin series.

Olney registered games of 199-195-207 to earn his honor roll ranking Wednesday.

Stonerock hurled the 644-pin series to rank himself in second slot in high game series for the season. He flubbed in the eighth frame of his first game, however.

IN THE FRAME, while working on a spare with a score of 149, Stonerock pushed past the foul line as his ball whizzed in for a strike. Observers estimated he would have earned a 676-pin total if not for the foul.

As it was, Stonerock earned a 196 for the faulty game, following through with games of 214 and 234. Complete results of the Wednesday Men's League follow:

Does TV Hurt Eyes? No More Than 'Looking At Doornob'

Specialists Bare 'Harm' In Viewing

Visual Aid Tips Are Outlined

Eye specialists in Ohio are convinced that television does no more harm to the eyes than "if you sat in your easy chair and looked at a doorknob just as long as you do at your TV screen."

Dr. David Goldschmidt, Circleville optometrist, made that observation this week after returning from Columbus where he attended a state convention of optometrists.

Dr. Goldschmidt said his fellow optometrists are agreed that:

"Television has caused a wave of visual problems the same as did the appearance of the automobile and the "Flickers".

"The numerous complaints that patients make all stem from the newness and novelty of the phenomenon of television. When a television set has been brought into the home, it immediately takes over.

"It is not uncommon, on questioning a complaining patient, to learn that he only looked at it for nine hours day before yesterday and eight hours yesterday and it gave him the durndest headache ever.

"IF YOU SAT in the most comfortable chair in your home and looked at a door knob for that length of time, it, too, would give you the durndest headache ever.

"Too much of anything no matter how good it is usually produces undesirable effects. This applies to television. It has been found that the average individual can sit and view television under the proper conditions for a two-hour period without any ill effects.

"It is recommended that when longer periods of televiewing are anticipated, an occasional break should be taken.

"Television should always be viewed in a normally- lighted room, but care should be taken that no glare reflects from the screen.

"Proper lighting is essential to comfortable viewing and ordinary floor lamps should be placed well to the side or behind the set. The scanning lines apparent on your TV screen are necessary evils and happen to be spaced so that an individual with 20-20 to 20-30 vision can discern them when sitting too close to the set.

"The recommended viewing distance is a distance equivalent to eight to ten times the vertical height of the screen. However, each individual soon determines his own most comfortable distance.

"PEOPLE WITH less than 20-30 vision tend to move up closer and those with 20-20 or better move back in an attempt to avoid scanning lines. The reason is obscure, but it has been found that children sit about one foot from the set for each year of age.

"Some people are more sensitive than others to violet light and the phosphors used in the earliest television tubes yielded a light with a preponderrence of violet. It caused some individuals much distress The tube manufacturers are correcting this condition by making use of different phosphors.

"The size of the television screen should be in proportion to the room viewing length.

"A 16 or 19-inch screen will be more or less out of focus to most viewers in a room 12 feet long, while a 10-inch screen will be insatisfactory in a 19-foot room.

"Bifocal wearers in the higher-age brackets may need to wear clip-over glasses with a slight additional correction, especially for smaller screen.

"Main points to remember are:

"1. Purchase a set with a screen suitable to the room size and be sure it is in proper adjustment.

"2. Do your televiewing in a normally-lighted room, but be sure no light reflects from the face of the set.

"3. Do not place the set and chairs so that the head must be held higher than normal eye level.

Kenney Demands New Air Strength

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 9—Gen. George C. Kenney, commanding general of the air university at Maxwell Airforce base, called last night for a revamping of the entire U. S. Airforce and said the Russians already are capable of hitting "any point in the country" by air.

Kenney told an Airforce Association dinner that the B-29s used in Korea "are now six years old and would not last long against any real air opposition."

He urged expanded construction of new type long-range bombers and said the Soviet Union will be tempted to take the U. S. "by the scruff of the neck" when it stockpiles more modern bombs and bomb carriers.

Cotton Quota To Be Hiked

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 — The government is expected to take another step that will please cotton producers today by further increasing the cotton export quota at least 100,000 bales.

A month ago a quota of two million bales brought screams of anguish from producers, who said the limit was arbitrary and applied at the wrong time. The quota was later increased by 146,000 bales, because, the agriculture department said, the carry-over from last year was greater than expected.

That increase pleased the producers, and today's, attributed to brighter harvest reports, should please them even more.

'Sweet Adeline' Singing Banned

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 9—Competing barbershop quartets no longer can sing "Sweet Adeline."

The Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, holding its mid-Atlantic quartet contest in Alexandria, has banned the song made famous by barber shop singers from the competition.

SPEBSQSA officials explained they have nothing against "Sweet Adeline," but they don't want the public to think it is the only song the boys can get together on.

Drop In Milk Production Can Be Avoided

Most of the drop in milk production in Fall can be prevented by good planning and management.

Good permanent pastures, supplemented by temporary pastures of sudan grass or some other hot-weather and drought resistant pasture suited to the land and climate conditions, will mean more milk at less cost. In many cases, failure to avoid the slump in milk production is because dairymen do not recognize that Summer and Fall pastures are not as nutritious as early, succulent, high-protein pastures.

Even though Summer pastures may look good, it is necessary to feed a limited amount of a well-balanced grain ration if the Summer and Fall milk production slump is to be avoided.

Enough feed in mid and late Summer will hold production higher and allow cows to go into the Fall and Winter months producing well and carrying good flesh.

Insurance Group To Be Formed

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9—The first annual meeting of the Charles W. Griffith Memorial Foundation for insurance education will open Saturday at Ohio State university.

The foundation is aimed at furthering education and research in the field of insurance. Officers will be elected Saturday. Russ B. Brown of Columbus is temporary chairman.
